ANSWER ON RELIEF PLAN

Leaders Refuse to Discuss
Proposed 10 Per Cent
Wage Cut Until Their Offer Is Definitely Ac-

WILLARD EXPLAINS
EXECUTIVES' VIEW

Says Roads Are Willing,
Individually, to Endeavor to Give Sustained Employment to Largest Possible Number of Men.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Talk of a 10 per cent voluntary wage cut for railroad workers must go on the sidetrack until labor's program for unemployment relief is definitely accepted or rejected, David B. Robertson, spokesman for the organized workers, said today.

He saw no chance "or a quick end of the conference that began a week ago today with nine railroad presidents.

Barclay Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, spent more than two hours today further explaining the financial condition of the nation's carriers to 400 brotherhood and union delegates. He assured them of the good faith of the railroads, of their willingness individually to make every effort to give sustained employment to the largest possible number of men.

Willard gave no intimation that the railroads would retreat from their position that no positive agreement could be ratified by the carriers as a group to advance employment for a specified period.

Six-Hour Day.

Neither Willard nor Robertson would discuss the Senate resolution adopted at Washington today, calling on the Interstate Commerce Commission to consider a six-hour day for railroad workers. It would make no difference in the current negotiations, they said, and Robertson added that he would "never let up hope" that the railway executives would consider the shorter working day.

The labor chairman emphasized that his following would make no decision on acceptance of the voluntary 10 per cent wage reduction until the negotiators had agreed or disagreed on the labor program.

The roads appealed to labor to accept the wage reduction not only in the interest of restoring the flow of the railroads but also to return prosperity by making possible the purchase of materials needed for repairs.

Against the railway presidents' argument of financial need, labor spokesmen said, will be these factors: An increase of $125,000,000 in the income of the railroads in 1931, a great borrowing power from the new Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The Herald and Examiner said today in a copyrighted article that labor was expected to accept the 10 per cent wage reduction.

Robertson, however, said there were no reasons for this report. "It is a complete fabrication without any foundation," Robertson contended. "We have not accepted the wage reduction to date."

Executives Give Reasons.

"The belief," said the President of the committee in a formal statement yesterday, "a reduction in the compensation of all persons engaged in railway service is an essential step toward enabling the railroads to improve their credit, purchase their employment and purchase, and thereby contribute toward a general revival of business."

Robertson called attention to the fact that the railroads were not to include the lower paid employees, many of whom have been in the industry for years. He said that the railroads were not to reduce the pay of all other employees in similar manner.

As to the necessity of saving $125,000,000 which could be made in the pay reduction, Willard said that the railroads had failed to earn their charges last year and that their net earnings could be increased this year the number would be "much larger."

The railway companies that are failing to earn their fixed charges are in danger of becoming bankrupt, he said. "In addition, $125,000,000 will be lost to the country."

REFUSES $100,000 MORE
FOR CITIZENS' RELIEF BODY

Board of Estimate Says City Will Have Substantial Deficit at End of Fiscal Year in April.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today refused a request for an additional appropriation of $100,000 for the work of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, on the ground that the city will face a substantial deficit at the end of the current fiscal year next April.

In the last 12 months the city has appropriated $600,000 for relief of the unemployed, the sum including $150,000 voted by the Board of Aldermen last Friday.

In addition, $124,318 has been spent to keep men whose services ordinarily are not needed during the winter months on the payrolls of the streets and park departments. Comptroller Nolte, a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, pointed out.

The appeal for additional funds was made by Tom K. Smith, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, and Walter B. Welschberger, president of the Chamber of Commerce. They reported that the results of the Citizens' Committee's drive for funds had been below expectations and it was thought the city could appropriate an additional $100,000.

In explanation of their refusal, the members of the Board of Estimate related that the collections are low, due to the business depression, and it was stated that the city undoubtedly would face a deficit.

Mayor Miller told Smith, however, that he would make an effort to raise the $100,000 through an appeal to prominent citizens.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment is composed of Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte and President Neum of the Board of Aldermen.

SENATE ORDERS I. C. C.
TO LOOK INTO 6-HOUR
DAY FOR RAILROADS

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Senate today adopted a resolution calling on the Interstate Commerce Commission to study the feasibility of the railroads' adoption of the six-hour day.

The resolution was offered by Chairman Coudens of the Interstate Commerce Committee, which earlier had approved it unanimously. The commission would be asked to report by Dec. 31, 1932.

Coudens said reports had come to him from Chicago conferences between the railroad brotherhoods and executives that the latter had embarked on the six-hour day, an agreement might be reached between contending factions.

Son's Act Causes Parent to End
Life—Copenhagen Police
Get Story From Letter.

By the Associated Press.
COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 22.—Holger Hansen, alternate judge at Odense, ended his life several days after his son had killed himself. Both were deeply mourned because they were highly respected in this community. But police found a letter among the elder Hansen's effects in which the son told his father he had discovered that the latter had embezzled about $57,000 and that of two alternatives—informing the police or killing himself—he was choosing death.

After verifying Hansen's defalcations, authorities expressed the belief that the judge became conscience-stricken and ended his own life.

INDICTED IN NEW YORK
MARRIAGE TIP GRAFT

Tammany Man, Deputy City
Clerk, Admitted Receiving $135,000 From Couples.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Two indictments against Deputy City Clerk James J. McCormick, Tammany leader of the Twenty-second Assembly District, were filed with Judge George L. Donnellan in General Sessions Court today by a grand jury.

The indictments were the outgrowth of McCormick's testimony before the Hofstadter Legislative Committee that he received about $135,000 in fees from couples he married in the municipal chapel.

Each indictment charges that he asked for and received a gratuity for performing an official act, which is a felony under section 1826 of the penal law, and with violating a section of the penal law which makes it a misdemeanor and defines as extortion an act of a public official in accepting such an illegal fee.

The maximum punishment under the two indictments in the event of conviction could be 22 years' imprisonment and fines totaling $8000.

QUIT 'BAWLING OUT' CITIZENS,
GERK ADVISES POLICE FORCE

Uniform Doesn't Give Right to Abuse Public, Chief Tells His Men.

Chief Gerke today reminded the police force that their uniforms do not give them the right to "bawl out" citizens. His order, which was read to all policemen at roll call, follows:

Constant, continuous police vigilance is essential to effective traffic regulation. Officers, all of us—be it as well as traffic men—must be active and alert in spotting violations and impartial, firm and courteous, especially courteous in dealing with them.

"In all our contacts with the public we must bear in mind that our uniform does not give us the right to 'bawl out' people. Citizens resent that kind of treatment and rightfully so."

GARNER SAYS RULES PERMIT

"Fair Interpretation" Also Would

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Speaker Garner said today "a fair interpretation of the rules would seem to permit a vote" this session on both resubmission of the eighteenth amendment and on modification of the Volstead act.

Earlier, Representative O'Connor, a wet bloc member, had told the House, "We have assurances that we shall have two votes."

O'Connor said, "We will have a vote on resubmission and no matter what happens to us, we will have a vote on modification of the Volstead act."

Garner said that "while not closing my mind on the subject," the interpretation given by O'Connor seemed correct under the new rules permitting a vote upon petition of 145 members.

CHAMBER BACKS
LAVAL'S STAND
ON REPARATIONS

Votes Confidence in Premier 303-265 After He Insists France Shall Not Give Them Up.

HE PROTESTS AGAINST BRUENING'S STAND

Herriot Says if U. S. Would Join League of Nations
"That Would Be the Great Solution."

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 22.—Premier Laval was applauded by all parties in the Chamber of Deputies today when he declared, in the course of a declaration of policy, that his Government would surrender none of the rights with regard to reparations which it inherited from its predecessors.

The Premier tonight won a vote of confidence in the Chamber, by 303 to 265.

Laval reviewed events in the development of the reparations problem since the declaration of a moratorium by President Hoover and asserted that in the circumstances it seemed to him advisable that the international debts conference tentatively arranged for Lausanne, be postponed.

He said he had filed a protest with the German Government against Chancellor Bruening's assertion that Germany could not meet its reparations payments when the Hoover moratorium expires and would not accept another temporary settlement of the reparations problem.

He cited the report of the Young plan commission which recently met at Basel to the effect that while Germany is in temporary difficulties, the economic power of which she must take advantage in the future is tremendous.

The Premier reiterated that France would not write off the reparations due her and would not accept any reduction in reparations payments unless there was a corresponding reduction in war debts owed by France.

"It is unthinkable," he said, "to permit Germany to dictate a settlement of the reparations problem."

Criticism of the stand of the United States on reparations marked a speech of former Premier Edouard Herriot in the Chamber of Deputies last night.

The speech of Herriot was cheered wildly. He declared that while France was ready to lend a helping hand to Germany in its difficulties, France could not abandon the right to reparations secured by contracts freely entered into.

"The United States," the former Premier and radical leader said, "which often gives us advice, would gain by being closer to us in international negotiations aimed at the whole world to assure peace."

He particularly regretted that the United States had not joined the League of Nations. That, he concluded, "would be the great solution."

Regret, rather than anger, characterized the American reference, however, and the general attitude of the former Premier was argumentative rather than showy.

Herriot deplored America's rejection of a proposal 12 years ago for a pact mutually guaranteeing the security of the two nations. He also criticized the statement of Chancellor Bruening of Germany that Germany could no longer pay reparations, reminding the Chamber that recourse could be had to the Hague tribunal and under the Young plan in event of Germany's failure to pay.

Allusion to McAdams' Plan.

"The attitude of the United States toward France in the 'past, present and future,'" was criticized by Louis Marin, nationalist leader, who alluded to the suggestion of Congressman McAdams that colonial possessions of European debtors be ceded to the United States in payment of war debts.

"This brought a response from Gratien Candage, Negro Deputy from the Island of Guadeloupe, who said: 'Frenchmen we are, and Frenchmen we will remain!'

Paul Reynaud, Minister of Colonies, intervened to say that no official proposal for cession of the French Antilles had been received.

Herriot in his speech said there was no denying that Germany was in an unfortunate situation, but he protested against what he called "an abominable campaign" tending to show that France, with reparations, was responsible for Germany's misfortune.

He read from an expert's report an indication that Germany would

By the Associated Press.
PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 22.—Attorneys for Winnie Ruth Judd, on trial for murder, were unsuccessful today in their attempt to prevent the state from introducing as evidence a suitcase in which parts of the dismembered body of one of the two women victims allegedly was placed and shipped to Los Angeles, where it was found Oct. 19 at a railway station. The state contends both women were slain by Mrs. Judd on Oct. 1.

After a three-hour recess of the trial, during which Judge Howard C. Speakman and attorneys consulted authorities, the judge ruled the suitcase could be submitted.

The state contended the suitcase is the one in which were parts of the body of Miss Hedvig Samuelson. Mrs. Judd is being tried now for the slaying of the other woman, Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi.

In addition to the suitcase, a hatbox and two trunks were awaiting submission when argument over admissibility of the first threw the court into recess while counsel and Judge consulted authorities.

Schenck and Lowkowitz argued the suitcase did not come under the rule by which the other receptacles might be entered in evidence, since it was found "only" in the body of Miss Samuelson, and nothing else.

Not to Object to Others.

The two trunks and the hatbox, defense indicated, would not be protested, since they were understood to have contained portions of bodies and material pertinent to both the LeRoi and Samuelson cases.

The interruption of the state's hitherto rapid progress came while the first witness of the day, John D. Washington, Negro head porter at the Phoenix union station, was on the stand.

Washington identified Mrs. Judd as a woman whom he had helped aboard the Southern Pacific train for Los Angeles at 8 o'clock on the night of Oct. 15.

"I put my baggage on the train," he said. "She had a suitcase and a hat box. The hat box had 'A. M.' on it."

An objection by defense counsel when the state attempted to have the suitcase marked as an exhibit in evidence stopped further questioning of Washington.

Alleged Impersonation on Phone.

The first state witness detailed the last moments of Mrs. LeRoi and Miss Samuelson and the alleged impersonation by Mrs. Judd of Mrs. LeRoi in placing a telephone call, and traced the trunks from the LeRoi-Samuelson home to the railway station.

Mrs. Ernest A. Smith, an employee of the clinic where Mrs. LeRoi was engaged as a technician, testified she received a telephone call the day following the slaying of Mrs. LeRoi.

"This is Mrs. LeRoi," Mrs. Smith testified the voice said.

"Dr. Brown," said Sammy's brother has arrived and we are taking him to Tucson. Will you give the message to Dr. Brown?"

The voice, Mrs. Smith testified, was that of Mrs. Judd.

Halloran a State Witness.

The state contends Mrs. Judd impersonated Mrs. LeRoi in order to forestall investigation of Mrs. LeRoi's disappearance.

Thirty-four witnesses will be used by the State, County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews stated.

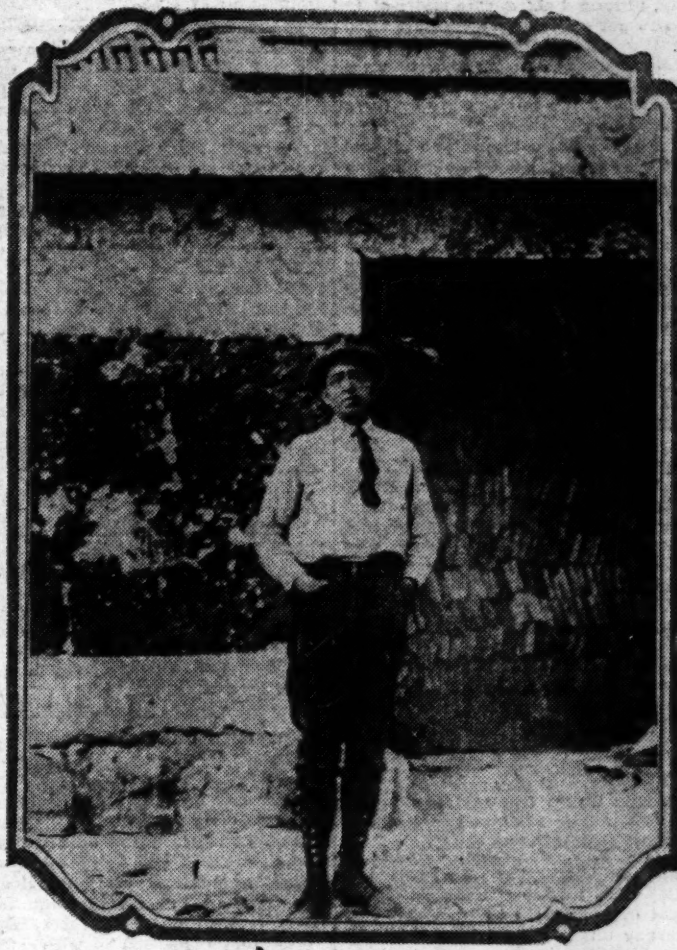

In calling the role of witnesses to be sworn, Andrews failed to read the name of J. J. Halloran, Phoenix lumber dealer who, investigation disclosed, was a friend of all three women in the tragedy.

Mrs. Andrews later, "I must have overlooked him. He's my witness. I'll admit that."

FLOWERS BLOOM

Shaw's Garden Superintendent
Fears Result if Late Freeze Should Occur.

The golden bells and fragrant Chinese honeysuckle at Shaw's Garden have been blooming right along through the mild winter, and John Kellogg, the wild-flower expert, was informed today that violets are blooming in some parts of St. Louis County.

Dandelions have never gone into winter quarters, and the Japanese quince, or burning bush, has been stealing every sunny opportunity to put forth a few crimson blossoms.

A burning bush was reported in full bloom today on a lawn in Tuxedo Park.

Grass is green everywhere, and probably will remain so, since it normally would be returning with in three weeks. Some of the golf courses have better greens now than they had last summer, when pests and sudden weather changes to blistering sunshine devastated many of them. Maple buds have reddened, and elm buds beginning to swell. Apple twigs in the experimental orchard at the Shaw's Garden 1600-acre Gray Summit extension are showing unusual signs of quickening life.

"It's all very fine," remarked Superintendent Pring of the garden, "except that a continuance of warm weather will lead to general premature blooming, and a late freeze to devastation."

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—With little discussion and almost no opposition, the House and Senate today adopted the conference report on the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction Finance Corporation bill, designed by the administration and supported by the Democrats, to aid financial institutions and railroads. The bill will be immediately sent to the President.

Both Houses approved the compromise conference report by viva voce votes. Only Senators Shipstead and Brookhart spoke against the measure in the Senate.

The House began consideration of the report immediately upon convening. About an hour was consumed in discussion, with Chairman Steagall of the House Banking and Currency Committee defending the action of the House conferees in accepting the Senate proposals on almost all the important points of difference. Only a few dissenting voices were raised in the House, overwhelmingly voted approval of the measure.

The report was rushed to the Senate, where Senator Walcott (Rep.), Connecticut, sponsor of the original administration bill, called for immediate action.

Wagner on Nonpartisanship.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, embarrassed Walcott when he asked him to cite the portion of the bill which authorized President Hoover to name Charles G. Dawes president and Eugene Meyer chairman of the corporation's board of directors. Wagner pointed out that the bill itself specifically provided that the board members should select their own officers.

"The President has insisted," said Wagner, "that he wanted to preserve the nonpartisan nature of this measure, yet the President's idea of nonpartisanship is to give charge of this corporation to a distinguished Republican."

Walcott replied that he had not conferred with the President about the appointments meant merely that he would recommend that Dawes and Meyer be elected president and chairman of the board.

"Horse From the Fair."

A subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee today unanimously approved a $500,000,000 appropriation to the treasury for purchase of the capital stock of the corporation. Chairman Byrnes of the whole committee later put the bill before the House. The appropriation bill itself, a privileged proposal, probably will be acted upon without delay.

The nearest approach to opposition in the House to the conference report came from Representative Louis T. McAdams of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican member of the Banking and Currency Committee, who declared that the measure permits inflation.

McAdams was answered by Representative J. G. Strong (Rep.), Kansas, who said, "God knows that if this country needs anything, it needs inflation. I am proud to say that this bill permits some inflation."

Chairman Steagall of the Banking and Currency Committee defended the House conferees' action in recording on many provisions in the House bill. "We came from the fair," he said, "with a

$571,000,000 OF CHILEAN LOANS IN U. S. IN 10 YEARS

Government, Cosach Nitrate Monopoly, Cities, Mortgage Bank Borrowers, Says Santiago.

COSACH OBLIGATIONS TOTAL $275,596,000

Denied Combine Has Anything to Do With Debt Moratorium — No Commission Above 1 Pct.

By the Associated Press. SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 22.—A total of more than $571,000,000 has been borrowed in the United States in the last 10 years by the Government of Chile, the Cosach nitrate monopoly, Chilean cities, and the Mortgage Bank, an official statement said today.

The statement was Chile's reply to the request of Senator Hiram Johnson of California for the figures in connection with a senate investigation at Washington. The text of the reply was cabled to Washington. It was made public by the Foreign Office. It listed 15 bond issues of the Government, the Mortgage Bank and cities, totaling $275,596,000 during the 10 years, and said they were made through the National City Bank of New York, Kiesel, Klinecutt & Co., Halliwell & Co., the Guaranty Trust Co. and the Grace National Bank of New York. No commission, it said, had been paid in excess of 1 per cent, although some issues were sold at a discount.

The Cosach obligations issued thus far, it said, total $275,596,000. Full details of the Cosach organization were given, although the Government denied the nitrate combine has anything to do with the debt moratorium. It was understood here the American committee would begin investigations Monday into Chilean bond issues, as requested by the Chilean Government.

Embassy Replies as Requested by Envoy in Cablesgram. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Chilean Embassy officials said today Ambassador Cruchaga had received from his Government answers to the questions of Senator Johnson (Rep., Cal.) and the Senate Finance Committee.

Sensor Johnson, who has been conducting the Senate foreign loan inquiry, is expected to summarize George Roberts, vice president of the National City Bank, who negotiated the sale in this country of vast amounts of Chilean bonds that are now in default.

Miguel Cruchaga, Chilean Ambassador to the United States, sent a cablegram to his Government, urging it to give a complete answer to questions propounded by Johnson concerning the Guggenheim-National City Bank nitrate deal, which is reported to have cost Chile $300,000,000. More than $200,000,000 of Chilean bonds, most of them sold to American investors, are in default.

Sensor Johnson's questions, addressed through the State Department, were intended to disclose that some of the same American financial interests which floated the Chilean bonds in the United States later entered into the nitrate deal, which is said to have deprived Chile of large revenues and thus made it impossible for the Chilean Government to make payments on the bonds.

The questions which Johnson addressed to Chile were in reply to a formal request of Ambassador Cruchaga for an investigation into the Guggenheim-National City Bank nitrate deal, in which the Chilean company was formed for the purpose of taking over the entire nitrate industry of Chile.

Nitrate Deal and Legal Fees. Under the Guggenheim-National City Bank agreement, Chile turned over to the company all of its own nitrate lands and $300,000,000 which it had in its treasury partly as a guarantee against its bonds, largely held by American investors. In addition, it remitted in favor of the Cosach company its export duties on nitrate, which formed a large part of Chile's revenues and part of its import duties on machinery imported by the Cosach company.

Thus the Chilean Government's cash resources for the payment of its foreign debts was cut down, and simultaneously one of its chief sources of income, in the form of its income taxes, was wiped out. Approximately $1,000,000 in legal fees was paid to Ellihu Root's law firm, in which Secretary Stimson was a former partner, and to the firm of Sherman & Sterling, in which Garard Winston, former Under-Secretary of the Treasury and a director of the National City company, is a partner.

British Cabinet Split on Tariff, Makes Unprecedented Decision To Carry on and Not Resign

Deeply Impressed With "Paramount Importance of Maintaining National Unity"—Majority Favors Flat Rate Levy.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Jan. 22.—Great Britain's Cabinet split on the tariff issue today but contrary to the expectation, the Government will not resign.

The break was precipitated by the report of the Committee on the Balance of Trade, but it really was caused by differences between the basic political theories of the free traders and the protectionists. It was understood that the committee backed by a Cabinet majority, proposed a flat rate tariff of 10 to 15 per cent on manufactured and partly manufactured imports. The Liberals in the Cabinet were thought to have held out for free trade, or a merely emergency tariff such as Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir Donald Maclean and Viscount Snowden might resign, was reported in political circles.

The stands taken by Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, leader of the extreme Protectionists, among the Conservatives, are unprecidented in British constitutional procedure and means that the tariff will be thrown into the House of Commons for free vote. With the preponderant Conservative majority, the indications are enactment of a tariff is now only a matter of time.

MacDonald appears to have saved his National Government from the crisis which developed so suddenly and for the moment can turn his attention to pressing international problems.

Strong protests came quickly from the opposition. George Lansbury, leader of the Labor party in the Commons, described the Cabinet's communique as "the most amazing statement of the last century." He declared that the subject of import duties and cognate matters are to be at liberty to express their views by speech and vote.

better horse than we rode away on."

Representative Claude V. Parsons (Dem., Ill.), was applauded after he declared that, if the Reconstruction bill had sponsored a similar measure two years ago, many banks, now bankrupt, would have been saved.

Interpretation on Foreign Paper. At the request of Representative John J. Cochran (Dem.), St. Louis, Chairman Steagall cleared up a point that had bothered the legal departments of many small banks. Section 5 of the bill, in referring to foreign obligations, that "no loans or advances shall be made . . . for the purpose of assisting in the carrying or liquidation of such foreign loans and foreign acceptance."

Cochran said that he had received several telegrams from bankers who believed that the word "carrying" might prevent them from obtaining loans on eligible securities. The fact that a bank held foreign securities, Cochran said, might, under a strict reading of the language, prevent loans because the money obtained from the corporation would help "carry" the frozen foreign obligations.

Chairman Steagall said that the Corporation Board would not interpret the language so strictly. Cochran said that the chairman's statement was important because many small banks had virtually been forced by the larger metropolitan banks to buy foreign bonds.

The President's Request. The President late yesterday asked for appropriation of the half billion dollars in a special message to Congress, immediately after reading the revised bill. The President said: "I have the honor to transmit herewith for the consideration of Congress a bill for the appropriation of $500,000,000 at the earliest possible date. Further details regarding this estimate are set forth in the letter of the director of the Bureau of the Budget, which is transmitted herewith."

Director Roper of the Budget Bureau cited provisions of the bill which authorize an appropriation of $500,000,000. "I am transmitting this estimate of appropriations at this time so that the important operations of the corporation may be commenced at the earliest possible date," Mr. Hoover said. In addition to the $500,000,000 of Government money, the corporation will have authority to issue bonds to the extent of $1,500,000,000.

FRANCE TO INSIST ON SECURITY PACT BEFORE ARMS CUT

Geographical Needs of Powers Must Be Basis for Geneva Conference, Delegates Will Maintain.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.) PARIS, Jan. 22.—When France sits at the disarmament conference next month, the Associated Press is informed in an official source, her delegates will offer to participate in reduction of naval armaments on condition that there is an acceptable preliminary accord fixing the ratio of naval forces with regard to the geographical needs of the several Powers.

This would mean first that France and Italy would have to reach an agreement concerning their respective forces, an accord which they have not yet been able to achieve. The French delegation will be prepared to approve any project for reducing the size of battleships as fixed by the Washington conference, but France still believes that the submarine is the best weapon for the defense of her coast.

It is the French thesis that there can be important reductions in naval or other arms only if security is guaranteed. And by security France means a guarantee of assistance for a nation which is attacked, and of punishment for the aggressor.

Maintains Need of Navy. "France is willing to accept that her naval strength shall conform to article VIII of the League of Nations covenant," an official statement said, "but her delegates at Geneva will maintain that since the French coast lies along three seas, and while more than a fourth of the French army is stationed in North Africa and numerous distant colonies, her present naval force is justified."

Article VIII stipulates that the maintenance of peace requires reduction of armaments "to the lowest point consistent with national safety." "France regards it as vital," said the statement, "that she shall be able to transport her army quickly from the metropolis to the scene of the event of an attack on the mainland."

"After long study, France is convinced that a battleship of about 27,000 tons is sufficient as a first line warship, combining as it does useful speed and resistance to torpedoes, airplane bombs and shells from other ships with guns of the same caliber."

"Therefore France will be disposed to approve any project at Geneva for reducing the size of battleships whose displacement limit was fixed at 35,000 tons by the Washington conference."

Wants All Fleets Reduced. "Further than that, France never has tried to build up to the limits of what she regards as her necessary battleship allocation fixed by the Washington conference. France is convinced that for her, the submarine is the best arm for coast defense."

"Seeking to lighten her own armament expenditures, France desires also to see a reduction in the fleets of all nations. We believe that if an accord for the limitation of naval armaments can be reached at Geneva it will be a great achievement, for it will put an end to all naval armament races."

"When a level of armaments in conformity with article VII of the League Covenant is accepted, the way will be open for proportional reduction of naval armaments, progressive and controlled. If Geneva can achieve such a result, there will be tremendous relief for the taxpayers of all nations and a revival of hope for the organization of permanent peace."

Land Bank Bill Passed. One bill of the Hoover program, already out of Congress, awaits the President's signature. It is to provide $125,000,000 new capital for the Federal Land Bank.

Of this total $25,000,000 is specifically earmarked to enable the banks to postpone the mortgage installment payments of needy farmer-borrowers.

Revision of Banking Laws to Curb Speculation. Far-reaching revision of the nation's banking laws to provide relief for depositors of closed banks and to curb speculation and chain carrying was proposed in a bill laid before the Senate yesterday with unanimous support of a banking subcommittee.

Senator Glass of Virginia, former Secretary of the Federal Reserve Bank, introduced the legislation worked out after a year of study and encompassing three major points of the economic program advocated by President Hoover. The whole Senate Banking Committee will study the bill further before reporting it to the Senate.

Points Bill Includes. It includes the following points: Broadening of the Federal Reserve in times of emergency; relief to depositors of closed banks; and safeguarding of depositors in national banks.

Creation of a liquidating corporation within the Federal Reserve System to speed payments to depositors of closed national and state banks. A sum of $200,000,000 would be appropriated to care for liquidation of closed state banks.

To place a curb on loans to brokers by member banks which rose to more than $6,000,000,000 during the stock market boom of 1929, the measure provides that member banks may borrow from a Federal Reserve Bank on a promissory note for a period not exceeding 15 days. Moreover, the promissory note must be secured by such paper as is eligible for rediscount or purchase by Federal Reserve banks.

Senator Glass observed that this indirect prohibition upon use of Federal Reserve facilities in stock speculation already has been adopted, in a manner, by the New York Clearing House Association.

Additional 20 Pct. Pay Cut Reported by Gulf, Mobile & Northern. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad has posted notice of a 20 per cent reduction in the pay of its organized employees who were not affected by the wage cut of last July. It is reported in railroad circles here today.

The July reduction was said to have been accepted voluntarily by a considerable number of the road's workers in order to help meet interest charges.

In spite of the fact that about 40 per cent of the train service employees of the combined forces of the Gulf, Mobile & Northern and the New Orleans Great Northern, and about 95 per cent of the other classes of employees accepted a 10 per cent cut last year, the road is reported, ended 1931 with a deficit of approximately $225,000. The New Orleans Great Northern has had to ask the Railway Credit Corporation for funds to meet its Feb. 1 bond interest.

GERMAN BANK CREDIT REPORTED EXTENDED

Berlin Papers Announce Year's Standstill Deal Involving $1,000,000,000.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Jan. 22.—The Boersen Courier and the Boersen Zeitung published today what they described as the text of the standstill agreement by which foreign banks would extend until Feb. 28, 1933, upward of $1,000,000,000 in German short-term credits.

Standstill credits have been classified by the bankers' committee into reimbursement and cash loans, the papers said, and cash credits had been re-divided into bank and industrial loans.

It was said, the creditors of the banks could on short notice have 25 per cent of their credits in marks, which must be reinvested in German securities. By this plan the banks would be enabled to liquidate their credits within two years.

Similarly, foreigners could withdraw 15 per cent of their industrial loans semiannually for two years, after which the amount could be increased depending on the adjustment of internal conditions. Creditors accepting marks and buying German securities would obligate themselves to hold them for five years.

There would be a further consolidation of $50,000,000 into a 10-year loan, the German banks paying annually 15 per cent of their foreign borrowing into a Reichsbank trust fund, against which 6 per cent certificates would be issued and which would be redeemable at 5 per cent semiannually.

The newspapers said that a committee of six had been named to meet quarterly in order to keep an eye on the financial situation in Germany and to make recommendations. American members of the plan committee refused to confirm or deny the published terms of the plan.

Lord Tyrrell, the British Ambassador, was said to have issued the invitation Wednesday and there was no doubt the Premier would accept if political circumstances did not prevent. he restored to full powers in a few years.

"France might help Germany if Germany does not put France in a difficult situation," he said.

View of Editor. Asking "what can be done if Germany does not pay?" in the newspaper Le Matin today, Stephane Lauzanne, noted editor, said two courses were open: First, to notify the Reichsbank that the Bank of France refused to renew its $25,000,000 credit which expires Feb. 1, thereby entailing a similar refusal by the world bank; second, to denounce immediately the treaty of commerce concluded in 1927 which, he said, was particularly advantageous to Germany.

Premier Laval probably will spend the week-end in England conferring with Prime Minister MacDonald on reparations, it was reported today.

Lord Tyrrell, the British Ambassador, was said to have issued the invitation Wednesday and there was no doubt the Premier would accept if political circumstances did not prevent. It was understood the meeting would determine whether the reparations issue should be decided now or put off until May or June. France wants to put it off until after the elections.

AUTO LEADERS VISIT HOOVER DENOUNCE 5 PCT SALES TAX

A. P. Sloan of General Motors and Levv Wouk of Buick Brakes on Volume Production.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Auto leaders of the automobile industry today took to President Hoover's denunciation of a 5 per cent sales tax on automobiles as "restrictive and discriminatory" against the industry.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, said the denunciation had told the President Hoover's industry considered it unfair to impose such a sales tax at this time.

"We feel that we have made a contribution," Sloan said, "through bettering our product, continuing volume production and in many cases reducing prices."

"We are willing to pay our part of any general tax. But we feel that a 5 per cent sales tax on automobiles alone is discriminatory against our industry."

The note was addressed "to Newark E. L. P. Co.," which police took to mean the Newark Electric Light and Power Co., later taken over by Public Service.

FORE WITNESSES CALLED IN MURDER INQUIRY IN HAWAII

Jury Continues Investigation of Charges Against Mrs. Fortescue and Lieut. Massie.

THREATS RECEIVED, PROSECUTOR SAYS

Search Goes on for Escaped Slayer Alleged by Japanese Woman to Have Assaulted Her.

By the Associated Press. HONOLULU, Jan. 22.—The grand jury today studied evidence against four persons accused of killing a suspected assailant of a navy officer's wife, and the Legislature today took to the city's crime wave.

Policemen searched for the man, a Japanese, identified as the man who attacked her Wednesday night. The search was for a man who was bound by a railway car. Officers were ordered to search rather than take chances. Lyman, sought since his escape from prison Dec. 31, offered resistance. The automobile, the store Mrs. Massie's escort was in, was in a residential section of the city.

Sixteen witnesses remained to appear before the grand jury which heard a like number yesterday in inquiry into the slaying of Joseph K. Kahanawale, for which Mrs. Massie, Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and a navy enlisted man are held.

Prosecutor disclosed that the members of the navy shore patrol, the Japanese maids of Mrs. Massie, and Mrs. Massie and Edward Uhl, cousin of the slain man, are among those summoned. James F. Gilliland, city and county attorney, who is presenting a case to the grand jury, disclosed he had received three threatening letters from persons in Honolulu.

A bill which would relieve Gilliland of prosecution of the Fortescue case and the four surviving accused of assaulting Mrs. Massie, encountered some opposition in the Legislature. Representation of the case was made in the manner which a special prosecutor would be appointed. Gilliland is an effective official.

TOY PISTOL ROBBER LEAPS TO HIS DEATH

Phones Sister, Plunges From 28th Floor of Hotel in Detroit.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 22.—Russell Gamble, 21-year-old bank robber, who was trying to go straight, plunged 28 stories to his death yesterday, leaving a penciled scrawl: "It's the only thing to do when you can't quit the gang."

Investigators said they knew nothing about any gang affiliations. A detective who knew him said Gamble had asked him for help in finding a job when he returned from New York after being paroled on conviction of a robbery in which he used a toy pistol. He said Gamble, who also was convicted of a robbery in which a toy pistol was used, had been working recently as a houseman in an apartment house for $10 a week.

Gamble took a room at the Book Cadillac Hotel early yesterday under an assumed name. In mid-afternoon he telephoned his sister, Mrs. Lillian Edwards, that he was in "terrible trouble" and asked her to come to his room. When she reached the hotel, her brother had thrown himself from a window.

The farewell message was addressed to Mrs. Edwards. It said Gamble wished to be "buried next to Dad." Police knew nothing about any "terrible trouble" he was in.

SENATORS FAIL TO SHOW UP AT WHITE HOUSE RECEPTION

Attendance Relatively Small, With Insurgent Leaders Absent for Various Reasons.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The White House reception for the United States Senate was held last night. The President and Mrs. Hoover shook hands with about 1000 guests, the smallest group of the season.

The list of senatorial guests of honor, small by necessity, was further thinned by absences. Prominent administration critics were absent, among them Johnson of California, Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska. Johnson seldom goes to the White House anyway. Borah usually stays home unless the special attraction of some visiting statesman calls him, and Norris is a confirmed early bird.

The one woman Senator, Mrs. Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, is in mourning.

CREDIT CORPORATION ISSUES THIRD CALL FOR PAYMENTS

$50,000,000 Requested for Next Monday From Subscribing
Banks.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The National Credit Corporation, it was learned today, has issued its third call to the country's banks for 10 per cent subscriptions to its debentures.

The amount requested for payment next Monday is $50,000,000, similar to the other two subscriptions, so that the corporation has now asked for $150,000,000 in funds from the normal rates on corporations. Originally the note was payable to Max Gallant, the petition states.

An entry of appearance in behalf of the Joy Realty & Investment Co., owner of the equity, avers that the holder of the first mortgage is threatening foreclosure. However, foreclosure was asked by Harris in the suit. He said a note for the second mortgage, dated Feb. 27, 1930, was payable in 15 months but has become past due, and that, although an assignment of rents was given as added security for the loan, the owners have refused to permit Harris to collect the rents. Originally the note was payable to Max Gallant, the petition states.

200 Farmers Had Searched All Night.

WOOSTER, O., Jan. 22.—Five-year-old Buddy Goodman, missing from his home near here since yesterday, was found late today in a woods, alive, but suffering from exposure.

More than 200 farmers searched the countryside last night and today. It had been feared the boy had fallen into a river. Last night Buddy's brown bulldog returned home. The dog had been with the child when last seen. This gave rise to fear that something had happened to the boy.

Salvation and Macaroni Disrupting "Hooverville"

"Ark of Safety" Backers and "Mayor" of River Front Colony in Bitter Controversy Over Food Distribution.

By the Associated Press.

Macaroni, mutton stew, noodles and salvation are mixed up in a controversy which is disrupting the tranquility of "Hooverville," a colony of 800 destitute persons who have built shacks on the river front south of the Free Bridge.

The "Hooverites," as they call themselves, now stand divided into two factions, the non-churchgoers, who want to retain "Mayor" Gus Smith as leader, and the churchgoers, who are ready to accept church supervision.

Disaffection from the ranks of "Mayor" Smith, who holds his leadership by priority of residence and public recognition, began with the coming of salvation to "Hooverville" in September, when a group of women of the Fundamental Ministerial Association built a mission house with colony labor which is called the "Ark of Safety."

Matters came to a crisis yesterday over a box of macaroni, which the women of the mission said had been sent to "Hooverville" on their solicitation for the inhabitants, but had been withheld from distribution by "Mayor" Smith and his aid, E. Pariah Dickson.

A violent quarrel took place between Dickson and the women, the latter was passed, and one of them addressed as "Sister" Martin told Dickson, "If I was a man, I'd throw you in the river."

A petition to oust "Mayor" Smith was signed on the pulpit of the "Ark of Safety" house yesterday after prayer meeting by about 25 "Hooverites." Mrs. Fahy H. Jackson of Webster Groves was one of the prayer leaders.

The ouster proposition was brought before the gathering by Mrs. Myrtle Coshen, 5415 Bates street, leader of the mission workers, who identified herself as a minister ordained by the Fundamentalist Association.

The macaroni issue that added bitterness to the struggle between church and state is an involved one. The women say the macaroni was sent last week to be part of a grand mutton stew, to which five donated sheep were sacrificed.

Dickson said the macaroni was moulty and refused to distribute it. In proof he exhibited some cartons with visibly mouldy contents, but was check-mated, when the women pointed out with hauteur, "That's not macaroni, that's noodles." "Well, that's what you noodies."

U. S. RULING ON DEPRECIATED
SECURITIES IN NATIONAL BANKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—National banks will be permitted to deduct from their gross income the value of depreciated securities which bank examiners have required them to charge off their assets.

The Internal Revenue Bureau announced the national bank authorities had adopted a policy of requiring the banks at each examination to write off the reduced values on bonds, mortgages and notes. At present the banks are not allowed to deduct these losses until after the securities are sold.

The ruling, however, applies only to securities which have been ordered charged off the national bank assets by the examiners and does not apply to those whose value has been affected by market fluctuations.

SEARCH BEING MADE FOR BANKER'S WIFE

Mrs. Clara Riesmeyer Missing

Two Days.

Mrs. Clara Riesmeyer Missing
From Home More Than
Two Days.

A reward of $500 has been offered for information as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Clara Riesmeyer, 47 years old, wife of Gustav Riesmeyer Jr., vice president of the First National Bank, who at 7 a. m. today had been missing for 48 hours from her home, 6454 Cecil avenue, Clayton.

Mrs. Riesmeyer is thought to have been suffering from an acute nervous condition, manifest for several months, when she drove away in her automobile early Wednesday. She was missed by the family at breakfast time. Because of her habit of early rising, her movements about the house before her departure had not alarmed the family.

Her car, a maroon Ford coupe, was found on the free bridge, near the East St. Louis side, Wednesday morning. It was facing west, as if Mrs. Riesmeyer had first crossed to East St. Louis and had left the car there on her return.

Members of the family believe Mrs. Riesmeyer walked from the bridge or took some other conveyance, and, with the co-operation of the police, they are watching hospitals, hotels and institutions in St. Louis and on the East Side.

It was learned today that Mrs. Riesmeyer, since the impairment of her health, had made previous unexplained departures from her home, and for this reason the latest departure was not reported to police until she had been away over night. She had remarked recently, to members of the family, that she would "do something pretty soon" if her health did not improve.

When in Chicago last fall with her husband, Mrs. Riesmeyer, acting on a sudden impulse, bought tickets to Atlantic City for both, and the husband went there with her rather than to have any discussion which might aggravate her condition.

Mrs. Riesmeyer is the daughter of George A. Meyer, former board chairman of the International Bank, now a part of the First National Bank. Meyer is a member of the First National Board. Mrs. Riesmeyer has independent means, and while it is not thought she had much cash with her, she could supply her needs by drawing a check at any place where she is known.

Her brother, E. R. Meyer, 6228 Forsythe boulevard, has taken charge of the search for her. Mrs. Riesmeyer is described as being 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighing 120 pounds, with large blue eyes, fair complexion and brown hair turning gray.

ALDERMEN VOTE FEB. 5 ON ASSESSMENT PLAN

Committee Approves Uniform System 4 to 1; City Officials for Change.

The uniform assessment ordinance, providing new methods for insuring more scientific and equitable assessments of real estate, is now scheduled to be enacted by the Board of Aldermen Feb. 5. The board's Legislation Committee yesterday voted four to one, to make a favorable report on the measure, which had the united support of city officials, including Assessor Gehner and of the Bureau of Municipal Research.

Aldermen Ellers, William Niederluecke, Kaufmann and Fischer voted in the committee for a favorable report. Alderman Lange cast the only opposing vote.

"St. Louis is doing so well with its present assessment method," Lange said, "that I don't like to undertake a change. It was the failure of a new assessment plan that got the city of Chicago into its present difficulties."

Lange cited provisions of the State law, that the Assessor should use his own judgment in making valuations, and he feared that a law prescribing fixed methods of valuation might be held invalid, as conflicting with these provisions.

Kaufmann and other members of the committee replied that inquiry had shown the inequality of assessments under the present system, and that a new method providing more equitable valuations could not conflict with existing laws, which are aimed at establishing equity.

They pointed out that the ordinance, as amended by the City Council, leaves final decisions to the Assessor's judgment; also that the present system is to remain in force until the necessary work has been done for installation of the new system.

NEW YORK CITY TO GET $100,000,000 FROM BANKERS

Municipality Also Establishes $150,000,000 Credit on Which It Can Draw.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The City of New York again has abundant money on hand to spend for necessary expenses, but not for those that bankers call wasteful.

Representatives of the city and of a banking group signed a loan contract last night, providing $100,000,000 cash for the city and also establishing a credit of $150,000,000 for current needs.

Conclusion of the loan closes a lively exchange of views in which the bankers told city officials that they must retrench, and city officials said they were willing to do that, but under no condition would surrender their adherence to a 5-cent subway fare.

Public sale of the new city loan was made today. More than 50 New York City banks and financial houses participated in the offering, at par, the same price that the underwriters have agreed to pay to the city for its securities.

The securities will be of a new type in New York city finance. They will consist of $100,000,000 New York City corporate stock notes in dividend maturities of three, four and five years and will bear interest at 3 per cent. J. P. Morgan & Co. heads the offering group.

The banking underwriters have waived all claim to profit on this loan. They will, however, derive a 5½ per cent interest charge on the $150,000,000 revolving fund. This fund will run through 1932.

SEARCH FOR KIDNAPED DENVER MAN GOES ON

Policemen and Firemen Making House to House Check of the City.

By the Associated Press. DENVER, Colo., Jan. 22.—Benjamin P. Bower, missing nearly days as the victim of kidnapers who demanded $50,000, was the object of a house-to-house search by policemen and firemen today. The 62-year-old bakery manager was abducted from his home by two men Tuesday night.

Little importance was attached by detectives to the temporary detention of Kenneth Coffman, 28 years old, who was questioned last night. Nothing developed from discovery of the kidnapers' automobile deserted in an isolated section.

Reports that the kidnapers had communicated with the family were denied by the attorney for the family and the police. Mrs. Bower offered "any reasonable amount" to the kidnapers for the safe return of her husband. Rewards for taking $3100 were offered for the arrest of the gang.

2 OLD FASHIONED Bargain Days!

FRIDAY and SATURDAY—January 22 and 23
Plan Now to Spend All of Both Days Shopping Here

YOUR grandmother was smart—she bought enough petticoats, stove polish and whatnots in the clearing sales to last her for the balance of the year.

Your mother was the kind of a girl who had pin money—and saved it for a grand buying orgy in the eagerly-awaited and long-remembered clearing sales of her heyday.

Our generation has had few, if any, such thrilling, varied and irresistible feasts of clearing bargains. This year we find that manufacturers' stocks, as well as our own, are just right to reproduce (as a matter of fact to excel) the clearance classics of bygone days.

Please keep the points listed at the right well in mind—otherwise you cannot possibly appreciate the tremendous importance of these two old-fashioned bargain days.

o'clock last night when struck by an automobile at State and Six-driver did not stop. Bernard died two hours later of a fractured skull at Christian Welfare Hospi-

Witnesses reported that Bernard had stopped, apparently to pick up some object in the street, when he was hit by a green sedan, which was driven west in State street at high speed. Bernard was thrown several feet, striking in the street, car tracks. The driver increased speed and escaped, and the witnesses were unable to obtain the license number of the machine. It was raining at the time.

Bernard had been employed by the East St. Louis Daily Journal for 20 years. He lived at 2924 College avenue, East St. Louis, with his wife and three sons.

'HEX' MURDER VICTIM

NORMAN E. BECHTEL

WITCHCRAFT MURDER VICTIM
CARRIED $60,000 INSURANCE

This Gives Philadelphia Police Possible Clue in Death of Young Bachelor.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—Norman Bechtel's will and his insurance policies gave police two important leads today in their investigation of the young church worker's mysterious death.

Found dying on a vacant estate in the Germantown section, his face and body mutilated with stab wounds, Bechtel was reported to have left $60,000 in insurance. The victim was only 31 years old.

"We would like to know," said Police Capt. Harry Heanly, "why a bachelor of Bechtel's age would want to carry so much insurance. In the second place, we would like to know who are the beneficiaries."

Much interest continued to center, however, in the strange wounds found on the victim's body. A circle of seven stab wounds around the heart, made, police said, after the first fatal thrust of a slim-bladed weapon had penetrated the heart, were significant when coupled with the cabalistic slashes left by the slayer on his victim's face and forehead. Theories that these were symbols of hexes or voodooism were held, although detectives said they doubted that Bechtel was the victim of a "hex doctor."

MILITARY FUNERAL ESCORT
BARRED BY CHICAGO UNION

In Consequence, Veterans Convey Comrade's Body to Grave on an Artillery Calson.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Because of a union rule barring private cars in funeral procession, war veterans in charge of the funeral of Saul Weiner, a stockbroker, used an artillery calson, obtained from the United States Army, today as a hearse.

Warned by the drivers that the military escort for Weiner, a war veteran who was shot by a robber Tuesday, would not be allowed to follow the hearse to the cemetery, officials of Yarmo-Devere Post of the American Legion and of the Metropolitan Post Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced that the body of their comrade would be conveyed to the cemetery on the calson driven by a member of the post.

True bills against two officers and four members of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs' Union, charging conspiracy to interfere with a funeral, were expected today, following reports they had been voted by a Criminal Court grand jury.

Mrs. Johnson said Churchill had recovered from injuries suffered in an automobile accident in New York early this month and was returning from the Bahamas to resume his lecture tour.

OLD AUTO CLUB TO DISBAND

Depression Hits National Group Organized in 1899.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Loss of memberships has caused the board of governors to vote the dissolution of the Automobile Club of America, oldest motoring organization in the United States, Elmer Thompson, secretary, announced yesterday. A member of the club said 3000 resignations, due to unfavorable economic conditions, had been received in the last three or four months.

The club, organized in June, 1899, has had headquarters in an imposing six-story Gothic structure in East Fifty-third street since 1925. The clubhouse, formerly the home of Mrs. William T. Harkness, was valued at $350,000 at the time of its purchase in 1922. Since then $100,000 has been spent on decorations and furniture.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—John Walsh, member of the New York police force for 27 years, and a friend of Commissioner Mulrooney, was shot and killed in a speakeasy holdup last night. Walsh was shot as he attempted to draw his revolver instead of complying with the "Hands Up" order of two young robbers. The holdup men escaped in an automobile driven by a third youth.

STRANDED CIRCUS ANIMALS

BEING FED HORSE MEAT
Tired of Pork, Ocelot and Lion
Take New Interest in Life
With Change.

An ocelot and a lion, first of 11 members of an animal show stranded in East St. Louis to show the ill effects of a straight diet of fat pork, took a new interest in life yesterday when their owner, David F. Masten, returned them to a diet of horse meat.

Masten had been feeding his animals hogs obtained from Hog Haven Farms and for awhile all members of the show seemed to be enjoying the pork. Then the ocelot began experiencing stomach disorders and the lion disgustedly stared for hours at his huge portion of pork before devouring it. Hitting on the happy idea of trading hogs for horse meat at the Belleville Rendering Works, Masten once again was able to bring happiness to his troupe.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A plan whereby each member of the Congregational and Christian Churches will be asked to give $1 to prevent the project was voted yesterday by the commission on missions of the united churches. The combined membership is 1,041,275.
The commission voted 15 to 20 per cent decreases in administrative and promotional expenses for 1932, and 5 per cent salary cuts for all staff members. Dr. Jay T. Stocking of St. Louis was re-elected chairman.

Take two tablets now. Better almost before you know it.
If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.
Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL; to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.
Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

REALTY MEN URGED TO STUDY SURVEYS ON BUILDING NEEDS
By Staying in Proper Price Ranges, Overconstruction Will Be Avoided, Says Robert P. Gerholz.

Real estate dealers attending the mid-winter business session of the National Association of Real Estate Boards were told today by Robert P. Gerholz, Flint, Mich., that overbuilding held no dangers for their business if construction were confined to the proper price ranges.
The meeting, which opened Wednesday at Hotel Jefferson, will close tonight, with a banquet at which Lawrence T. Stevenson, Pittsburgh, Pa., will be inaugurated president, succeeding Harry S. Kissell, Springfield, O. Stevenson is a former president of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and is now a member of the Tax Commission of the United States Chamber of Commerce.
Gerholz spoke of the need for consumption surveys, to determine whether there is enough demand to absorb the volume of goods that mass production makes possible. Overbuilding in the wrong price ranges results from the lack of such surveys, he said, and is the cause of numerous foreclosures.
What Family Can Pay For.
"In the majority of foreclosures," Gerholz said, "the terms of sale entail monthly payments beyond the carrying power of the purchaser. Economists working in the housing field have found that the average family of five can with safety purchase a dwelling at a price about twice their yearly income. Smaller, thriftier families may pay two and a half times their annual income, but this is not for the average."
Similar counsel was included in

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer. LAWRENCE T. STEVENSON

a paper prepared by Harry Leo Martin, Los Angeles, Cal., which discussed safe ways of financing installment sales of homes. Martin advised that at least 25 per cent of the price be paid in cash, and said that in general families might apply 25 per cent of their monthly income toward the purchase of a home.

Subdivision projects were described by Arnold P. Folker, Wayne, Mich., and Marshall G. Simmonds, Chicago. Folker described the growth of Garden City near Detroit, which was laid out in small farms for industrial workers, who became part-time farmers. In the beginning, he said, the homes were small structures, converted into garages as the community prospered and more substantial homes were built.
Hints on Subdivisions.
Simmonds recommended that subdivisions be laid out in blocks 250 feet long and the lots be made 75 by 100 feet. "This would leave a space 150 feet wide in the core, or center," he said, "which could be converted into a playground for children up to 12 years old. The playground might be anything from leaving it 'as is' or maintaining a lawn, to installing a swimming pool or playground apparatus." One of its chief values, he said, would be in keeping children from crossing dangerous streets.
The organization and work of bondholders' protective committees was described by Leonard P. Reaume of the Detroit Trust Co. Many issues now in default, he said, will pay out 100 cents on the dollar if properly managed.
Because of the wide powers delegated to committees, Reaume said, it is important that their personnel be competent to meet the problems presented and that their integrity be above reproach.

An innovation in planned economy programs, a 10-year plan for agriculture based not on prospective benefits but described in terms of accomplishment during the last 10 years, was presented by Charles P. Collison, agricultural editor of the Minneapolis Tribune.
Collison's newspaper began to promote the plan in the Northwest in 1921, he said, and it is now entering its second decade. It is a matter of diversification and livestock farming for those who formerly grew nothing but grain. "Wheat has ceased to be the index of our prosperity," Collison said. "Sagging grain prices no longer spell defeat or disaster. They do spell lower feed costs for our dairy-men and livestock feeders. It is principally in grain or cotton, single-crop regions, that the wall of distress is now long and loud."
Farm buying power in Minnesota, Montana and the Dakotas, Collison said, was increased 71 per cent, or $681,000,000 in the first eight years the plan was in operation. Minnesota's reduced wheat crop from $21,000,000 in 1921 to $12,376,000 in 1929, he said, "but her barnyard biddies save their owners $80,000,000 worth of eggs and poultry, making wheat look like chicken feed. The value of Minnesota's butter production, he said, is more than that of its ore mines, which produce 60 per cent of the country's ore."
The appraisal division of the association yesterday approved a reorganization plan which has been considered for two years and hence-

a great team to furnish the best and cheapest form of transportation available."

Urging completion of the inland waterways system, he continued:
"When a condition arises wherein one section is penalized for the benefit of another, it is the business of the nation to correct that condition."

"Such a condition can reasonably be said to exist between the Appalachians and the Rockies."

He said cheap water transportation, in addition to aiding agricultural areas, would benefit interior manufacturers. He said Congress never intended, by the transportation act of 1920, to foster any form of transportation to the extent that the people should be denied the privilege of using any other form.

In a discussion of the rail-truck controversy over the transportation of cotton, Gen. Ashburn reported the railroads had asked him to refuse to haul cotton coming to the Federal barge lines at Memphis by truck "unless all-water rates were charged sufficient to equalize the cost of movement to our ports either by truck or rail."

"There is more at issue than a rail-truck controversy," he declared. "It is the right of the people to use any form of transportation which has been created by them."

Roman Boat 2000 Years Old.
ROME, Jan. 22.—A third Roman boat, 2000 years old, has been found in Lake Nemi, where two barges of the Emperor Caligula were recovered by draining the lake. The craft is thought to have been a freight barge.

FLYER KILLED AFTER SAYING HE 'MAY NOT MAKE IT'

Mail Pilot From Madison, Wis., to Chicago, Crashes After Leaving Rockford. By the Associated Press. COLVIN PARK, Ill., Jan. 22.—

Charles W. Rousch, 33 years old, air mail pilot for the Northwest Airways between Madison, Wis., and Chicago, crashed to his death near here late yesterday just a half hour after he took off from the Rockford (Ill.) airport expressing concern over flying weather.

"I might not be able to make Chicago," he told an attendant. "Wait for me 15 minutes."

The crash was witnessed by W. W. Baxter, a railroad towerman, who said the plane took fire in the air after an explosion and fell to the ground. It was apparent Rousch, who lived at Robinson, Ill., had made a desperate attempt to save himself. His half-opened parachute was found entangled in the tail of the plane.

Robert Showers, 22, a student flyer, was killed yesterday at Champaign, Ill., when he was making a final test flight in preparation for a Department of Commerce examination for a private license.

Rousch, who learned to fly in 1931, went to work for Universal Airlines at Lambert-St. Louis ways.

F. D. UNDERWOOD IS SUED
Woman Alleges Conspiracy With His Son, Her Former Fiance.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Russell Sage Underwood, son of the former president of the Erie Railroad, was accused in Supreme Court yesterday of conspiring with his father and a private detective to force Miss Elizabeth Furst out of town because, she alleged, he owed her "certain rights, duties and obligations."
Miss Furst, who says she is a former fiancée of young Underwood, is suing the three for $100,000, charging slander and conspiracy. She made the conspiracy charge in a bill of particulars, and the defendants promptly demanded another bill explaining what the certain rights, duties and obligations consisted of. The girl charges she was slandered. Co-defendants with young Underwood are his father, Frederick D. Underwood, and Harry A. Fohr, private detective.

Hotel Accountants' Election.
The St. Louis Hotel Accountants' Association has elected new officers as follows: J. T. Marder, president; John C. Farr, vice president; J. Holmes, secretary.
JOHN W. BAIN TO STAND TRIAL
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 22.—A Deputy Sheriff left here today for Chicago to return John W. Bain, former president of the Equitable Life & Casualty Insurance Co., to face trial in Criminal Court on charges of embezzling $152,772.
Harold L. Levy, Bain's attorney, informed Commonwealth Attorney W. Clark Otte that Bain is ready to drop his fight against extradition and return to Louisville for trial on the embezzlement charges. He is in the Cook County jail, fighting the demand of his wife for $5000 back alimony.

SUES TO RECOVER
$104,500 ON STOCK
Receiver for Allied Aviation Industries Alleges Repurchase Agreement.

The representation that Gen. Pershing was to become chairman of the board of the Arrow Aircraft and Motors Corporation of Kansas City yesterday by Receiver George A. McNulty to recover $104,500 on the stock purchase.

The Allied Aviation Industries, a holding company for aviation enterprises, with headquarters at St. Louis, was placed in receivership last May on the petition of stockholders.
The suit at Kansas City is directed against the Woods Brothers Corporation, which sold the stock, and the Arrow Corporation, a subsidiary. Gen. Pershing's announced connection with the Arrow Corporation never materialized, according to the suit.
Receiver McNulty's petition contains the allegation that Woods Brothers promised to maintain the market value of Arrow stock at $12.50 a share, even if it were necessary to buy back every share sold.

According to the receiver, there existed a definite agreement between Woods Brothers and the Allied Aviation Industries at the time of the transaction in 1929 for the repurchase of the Arrow stock at $11 a share, the price paid by the Allied Industries. The "purchaser sold several hundred shares of the stock," then tendered the bulk of it back to Woods Brothers, drawing a draft for $104,500, which was not honored, McNulty says. Although the Arrow Corporation is still operating, its stock fell far below the mark at which Woods Brothers are alleged to have guaranteed to maintain it, according to McNulty.

15 COMMUNISTS CONVICTED
OF ASSAULT AT TAMPA, FLA.
Face Maximum Penalty of 21 Years for Disorders in Which Police Were Shot.
By the Associated Press.
TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 22.—Fifteen Communists, two of them women, yesterday were convicted of charges of assault to murder and of rioting. They face a maximum penalty of 21 years each for disorders on Nov. 7, when several policemen were wounded.
In their trial in Criminal Court the State charged the 15 persons attacked policemen who tried to break up a parade operating without a permit. Patrolman John N. Byrd was shot and Sgt. D. B. Wilson was struck with a brick. Other officers were wounded slightly. Defense counsel argued the defendants were attacked by policemen at a peaceable gathering in celebration of the fourteenth anniversary of the Soviet Union.

These convicted: J. E. McDonald, Carlos Lezama, Angel Cabrera, Juan Hidalgo, alias Jim Nine; Enrique Bonilla, alias Nilo Lima; Frances Romero, Ismael Cruz, Cesario Alvarez, Jose Campo, Mario Lopez, Caroline Vasquez, Joe Hevia, Felix Marroero, Eugene Carbera and P. L. Rodriguez.

WANTS POWER DISCUSSIONS
MADE CLEAR TO THE PUBLIC

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Public discussions of the power question should be couched in the language of Main street so that the layman may understand, George Otis Smith, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, told the power division of the American Society of Civil Engineers yesterday.
He asked for larger interest in public questions on the part of the engineers, saying he based the appeal, not on sentiment, but on the fact that their trained talents would "bring more sense into political and social problems."
"Both politics and sociology sadly need more facts," he added. "What is needed is more facts and facts more clearly presented. Of course, back of public discussion must be quiet study of the issue."

"I'll let you in on a secret"

"I always thought you had to pay a lot for a dentifrice to have white teeth and healthy gums. I believed it so firmly that for years I had been buying one of the most expensive tooth pastes on the market.
"But recently, money hasn't been so plentiful with us. I have had to look for bargains in everything, but I still persisted in paying a lot for tooth paste.
"John pointed out to me that it wasn't necessary any more to pay so much for tooth paste—that I was losing a good chance to economize in that direction. After a lot of persuading, I took his advice.
"I bought Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢. And I'm going to let you in on a secret—that's enough to pay for a dentifrice of first-rate quality. John's teeth are as white and gleaming as they ever were. My teeth look fine and my gums feel fine. And even Junior speaks about the clean, sweet after-taste this famous tooth paste leaves in the mouth.
"I've been convinced—you won't catch me paying 50¢ for a tooth paste again."
The Listerine people put this tooth paste on the market, only after 50 years of oral hygiene study showed them what was needed to make a tooth paste really good. Now four million critical men and women have discarded older and costlier favorites for this modern tooth paste at the modern price.
Listerine Tooth Paste owes its remarkable effectiveness to a special polishing agent. This cleans teeth faster and more thoroughly than ordinary dentifrices do. It leaves no trace of tartar, tobacco stains, decay, or any discolorations. Yet it is so scientifically gentle in its action that it cannot possibly damage the most delicate tooth enamel.
We are able to give you this extra-high quality dentifrice at an extra-low price because we use the most efficient manufacturing methods known, and huge demand permits production on a vast, cost-cutting scale. All these economies we pass on to you.
You, too, will become a constant user of Listerine Tooth Paste once you have tried it. Ask for a tube today at your druggist's. It will improve your teeth—and cut your tooth paste bill in half. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, Mo.

"This Tooth Paste made me proud of my teeth"
Some of the things you can buy with that $3 you save
These are just a few suggestions for spending the $3 you save yearly by using a 25¢ tube of Listerine Tooth Paste a month instead of dentifrices costing twice that amount.

FIGHT FOR LISTS OF BONDHOLDERS
IN FIDELITY FIRM

Depositions Describe Unusual Activity Before Filing of Receivership Suit on Nov. 30.

Unusual activities of officers and employees of the Fidelity Bond and Mortgage Co., in preparing for the organization of bondholders' protective committees in anticipation of the receivership suit which was filed Nov. 30, are related in depositions filed in Circuit Court today.

Two rival committees, which are competing for the privilege of protecting the bondholders, resulted from the foresight of those connected with the Fidelity Co. The depositions were taken before Special Commissioner J. Hugo Grimm in connection with an effort being made to prevent the receiver from depositing bonds with a face value of $400,000 with the committee headed by Charles L. Holman. The other committee is headed by E. Morton Moss.

Abraham N. Pritzker, Chicago, one of the attorneys for the Holman committee, was examined by Wilbur B. Jones and George W. Lubke, counsel for the Moss committee, and told of advancing $2200 to the Fidelity Bond and Mortgage Co. two days before the receivership suit was brought. On the same day he said, William R. Brace, attorney for the Fidelity company, packed its original lists of bondholders in a trunk and shipped them to Chicago. Two days later the receivership suit was brought and, when the Fidelity company did not oppose the action, Isaac T. Cook was appointed receiver.

Says Loan Was Protected. Joseph H. Grand, who was appointed attorney for the receiver, then demanded and obtained the return of the lists. Pritzker said it was his opinion that there was nothing improper in the manner in which he obtained possession of the lists. The money he had advanced, he said, was to take care of pressing immediate obligations of the Fidelity company, and collateral was given to secure the loan.

Before Pritzker appeared on the scene, however, Charles R. Lewis, an employee of the Fidelity Co., had concluded that receivership was inevitable, and the desirability of possessing a list of bondholders had also occurred to him. Lewis, who lives at 420 West Swon avenue, Webster Groves, said his duties at the company were those of cashier, but he had the nominal title of treasurer.

About the middle of November, he testified in answer to questions by Grand, he determined to make a list of the bondholders and arranged with another tenant in the Chemical Building, in which offices of Fidelity Co. were situated, to use his office for transcribing the lists. This was done, he said, at night and on Sundays, without the knowledge of any of the other officers of the company.

"You understood of course," Grand asked, "that a list of bondholders was a valuable thing to have?"

Expected to Form Committee. "I thought it was essential to protect the bondholders," the witness replied. Lewis added that he expected to use the list in forming a committee and expected to be employed by the committee. No agreement has been reached, he said, concerning his compensation.

Lewis said he was responsible for organization of the committee now headed by Moss. About 6000 letters were sent to bondholders, he said, Jones supplying about $75 to pay part of the cost and Lubke contributing about $15 or $20. Of the men selected originally for the committee, Lewis said: "Some of them just dropped off, others wavered and we selected new men." Jones and Lubke, he said, aided in selecting the new men.

were valuable to persons who might solicit the bondholders and pick up their securities at cheap prices. It is possible, he brought out, to depress the prices artificially, by filing legal actions against the properties.

The Fidelity Co. sold about $13,000,000 in real estate mortgage bonds and guaranteed them both as the principal and interest. Although many of the properties which secure the issues are in other cities, most of the bonds were sold in St. Louis.

GOV. CAULFIELD'S CANDIDACY PLANS AWAITED BY G.O.P.

Expected to Make Decision on Senatorship Race Before Annual Lincoln Day Dinner in St. Louis.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Believing it to be settled that Lieutenant-Governor Winter will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, the party interest has turned to speculation as to whether Gov. Caulfield will seek the nomination for United States Senator to succeed Senator Hawes.

Though the Governor has not issued any definite public statement, and though it is doubtful that he has confided in even his most intimate political associates, politicians generally are expecting an announcement from him within the next week or two, and are expecting him to be a candidate.

If he should not enter the race, the party leaders who would have supported him will look to former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton to file for the nomination. In other words, the party leaders are expecting either Caulfield or Newton to be the candidate with the general organization support which will be back of Winter for Governor, and that means practically all the influential Republican leaders of the State.

The possibility that Congressman Dyer of the Twelfth District will choose to try for the senatorial nomination rather than for re-nomination to the House, has not noticeably excited the powers in the party. They recognize that Dyer as a vociferous wet undoubtedly would have a very considerable following in St. Louis, but they have not been able to envision him as a strong out-State candidate.

Convinced that at best the prospect of the election of a Republican Senator or Governor in Missouri this year is very slim, the leaders are attempting to draw out as candidates for the more important posts the men whose public records will appeal more strongly to independent voters.

With either Caulfield or Newton as a candidate, it is doubtful that there would be opposition in the primary, though there would be a strong temptation for Secretary of State Becker to bring out an opponent, particularly if the Governor should be the candidate. It might be that the Dyer forces might be willing to enter into an alliance with Becker in the expectation that Becker might be able to deliver some of his dry rural following, in exchange for wet votes for Becker in St. Louis, but this would be rather difficult in view of Dyer's wet activities in Congress.

Although Newton is wet, he never has antagonized the dries and he has a strong following throughout the State, among both wets and dries. Caulfield, likewise never has been opposed by the dries, though in his campaign for Governor he unhesitatingly said he had always believed local option and strict regulation, accompanied by education, to be a better means to obtain temperance than national prohibition.

There is a story among Republicans that the failure of the Governor to state his intention as to the senatorial nomination before this time has been due to some uncertainty as to whether there would be a candidate against Becker for the nomination for Governor. According to this story, which lacks official confirmation, the Governor was willing to take his chances with the depression but not with Becker on the ticket with him.

Decision Expected Soon.
But if the Winter candidacy materializes, as it now is believed it will, this objection, granting that it existed, will have less weight. Republicans of prominence in party affairs look upon either Caulfield or Newton as the strongest candidate the party could produce for the senatorial nomination. While there is opposition among some of the practical politicians in St. Louis to the Governor, due to his refusal of a demand by William Sackman, who has assumed the lead in Becker's St. Louis campaign, to inject politics into the St. Louis Police Department, Caulfield is recognized as having an out-State strength among independent voters as well as Republicans, and even among Democrats, greater than that of any Governor in recent years. While Newton might be a bit stronger in St. Louis than Caulfield, his out-State following in the election probably would not quite equal that of the Governor.

Neither Caulfield nor Newton would suffer from lack of strong organization support in St. Louis, however, as it is certain that either would get the active co-operation of the party element led by Collector Koeln.

A decision by the Governor may come any day. It is virtually certain to come before Feb. 12, when annual Lincoln day dinner will be held in St. Louis, and when the active campaigning in the Republican primary will begin.

ASSAULTS FARM EXTENSION WORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Representative Hart, Michigan's only Democrat in the House, declared today that body yesterday that the Agriculture Department's extension work "is paternalistic and borders on socialism."

"I am going to offer an amendment to strike out of the agriculture appropriation bill the more than $12,000,000 provided for this service," Hart said. Most of the money, he added, was spent on county agents "who spend most of their time promoting the false proposition that co-operative marketing will help the farmer."

LIFE INSURANCE SALE RISES

FIRST TIME IN 18 MONTHS

New Business in December Largest Since June, 1930, Report Discloses.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The largest amount of new life insurance written in the past 18 months was credited to December in a report yesterday by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. The report said December also was the first month since June, 1930, to show a percentage increase over the corresponding month of the preceding year. The increase was one-half of one per cent over December, 1930.

The statement, which showed the new paid-for business of 44 member companies having 32 per cent of the total volume of life insurance outstanding in all legal reserve companies, disclosed the new business of the companies during December, 1931, was $1,117,187,000, compared with $1,112,172,000 in December of 1930. The total new business of the companies for 1931 was $11,035,003,800 against $12,460,977,000 in 1930, a decrease of 11 per cent. The reporting companies showed the total of all life insurance carried by them to be $89,832,462,000 on Dec. 31, 1931, a net increase of insurance in force for the year of $1,059,355,000, or 1.2 per cent.

NEW PLAN FOR COLUMBIA U.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Columbia University yesterday announced plans for a new engineering center to cost $25,000,000. The plan contemplates an expansion of the engineering school on a scale similar to that of the School of Medicine at the medical center. Faculty and alumni committees are considering ways and means of developing the plan, Dean Joseph W. Barker said.

TO MAKE DEPOSITCompelled to Drive West to Lucas and Hunt Road.
Robbed Near Glen Echo
Country Club.

William Rosenthal, proprietor of the Spot Hardware Co., 5744 West Florissant avenue, was robbed of more than $600 in cash and jewelry valued at $1900 by a man who entered his automobile at Union boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue as Rosenthal was on his way to a bank at noon today.

Rosenthal, who was going to the Hotelmont Bank, 6145 Barmter avenue, was making a boulevard stop when the robber, described as a young man, forced his way into the automobile.

The robber turned the rear vision mirror up so that Rosenthal might not observe anyone following and ordered Rosenthal to drive west on Natural Bridge road to Lucas and Hunt road in St. Louis County.

Near the Glen Echo Country Club, Rosenthal was robbed of a package containing the money, a diamond ring valued at $1500 and a $400 diamond stud. He was then ordered out of the car and told to walk down the road. Half a mile away he reached a telephone and notified officers, who found tracks of an automobile that apparently had followed to the scene of the robbery and turned around. Rosenthal's machine was abandoned at the point he left it.

Once during the ride, Rosenthal said the robber remarked, "We were short on that money we got from your safe," evidently referring to a safe robbery at the store about two weeks ago, in which $700 was taken. The robber carried a pistol.

THREE AMERICAN TENNIS STARS IN SEMIFINALS PLAY

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 22.—For the sixth year in a row, players from the United States are dominating the Canadian covered courts tennis championship, now in progress here.

With three representatives in the semi-final bracket, the United States seemed virtually certain to win the title for the sixth time in as many years. The survivors were George Lott, champion in 1927-28-29-30-31; J. Gilbert Hall, champion in 1929; and Berkeley Bell. The lone Canadian representative was Marcel Rainville, Davis Cup star from Montreal.

Pairings today sent Lott against Hall and Rainville against Bell. In doubles, a final round meeting between the combination of Lott and Rainville and the team of Hall and Fritz Mercur.

Lott and Rainville squared off against H. Paul Emdar and Roland Longtin of Montreal in the semi-finals today while Mercur and Hall took on Bell and C. W. Leslie of Montreal.

PART THREE.

SOVIET GIVES OUT DETAILS OF NEW FIVE-YEAR PLAN

Factory Production to Be Greatly Increased and Electrical Energy Multiplied by Six.

COAL OUTPUT SET AT 250,000,000 TONS

Living Standards to Be Raised and Nation to Take First Place, Technically, in Europe.

MOSCOW, Jan. 22.—The final report of the first five-year plan of the Soviet Union, which was adopted today as the most important result of the first five-year plan, was issued for the beginning of the second plan, in which work was to be declared, would be three times better than under the first.

Under the second plan, said the report, the living standards of the workers must be raised and the standard of living must be supplied with two or three times the amount of the first plan, which Russia hopes to complete this year.

The instructions were contained in reports of Vyacheslav M. Molotov, president of the council of people's commissars, and V. V. Kuznetsov, vice president of the council and head of the state planning commission. These were approved by the political bureau of the Communist party and published in the newspapers.

Second of Accomplishment. The second five-year plan, the report said, would be a completion of the first, which was prepared as a basis for the growth of Socialism in the Soviet Union. It placed heavy industry on a firm footing and transformed Russia from a country of little agriculture into the largest farming nation in the world through the application of modern machinery and technique.

During the second five-year plan, said classes must be finally and completely abolished and all causes of technical reconstruction in industry, transportation and agriculture. Because the completion of technical reconstruction depends on these machines, the report said, it was necessary to increase the output of machinery at least three or four times. By 1937 the output of electrical energy must be increased six times, 250,000,000 tons of coal must be produced compared with 90,000,000 tons in 1922, the iron output must be increased to at least 2,000,000 tons and the production of oil must be increased two and a half times.

More Railways Needed. Railway transportation must be completely reorganized, from 15,000 to 25,000 miles of new railways, larger and more powerful, building stock provided and lines electrified.

Further developments must be made in production of non-ferrous metals and chemicals, in water transportation, airways, roads and light industries and food production. Agriculture must be completely reorganized, on Socialist basis, so the machine and tractor stations would serve all collective farms.

During the first five-year plan, the report added, the Soviet Republic solved the grain problem; during the second, the cattle problem must be solved by increasing the production of meat products. The output of cotton and flax must be increased, sugar beets trebled and grain production must total at least 1,200,000,000 centners (about 1,200,000,000 bushels).

Since these problems were inseparably connected with the mastery of technique, said the report, it would be necessary to create a new intelligentsia from among the workers and peasants and the national level of all toilers must be raised.

Development of Soviet trade to the utmost would be necessary, and during the second five-year plan Russia would take first place in Europe, while the progress in 1925 "to insure the economic independence of the Soviet Union, safeguarding it against the capitalist world" finally would be completed.

Adequate Tax Rate Is One Reason. Milwaukee Has $4,000,000 Surplus While Other Cities Face Deficits

Its Levy 24 Pct. Higher Than It Is Here for State, Municipality and Schools—Expenditures Compared With Those of St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 22.—How does Milwaukee do it? This question is being asked by officials of other American cities, which are struggling with municipal deficits while Milwaukee has money in the bank, having started the year with a $4,000,000 surplus of city funds.

The answer, in part, is that Milwaukee has an economical and efficient city government. The other, and perhaps not the less important part of the answer is: An adequate tax rate.

Milwaukee's tax rate for city purposes, including schools, is $25.96 on the $1000 valuation, while the rate in St. Louis for city purposes and schools is $25.90 (or $25.90 on the $1000). But it is to be remembered that St. Louis city purposes include the functions of a county, and the support of courts and welfare institutions which in Milwaukee, as in most other cities, are charged to a county budget.

Before, to make a correct comparison, the Milwaukee County tax rate, $7.59 on the $1000, which every taxpayer of this city must pay, should be added to the city rate already cited. With this correction, the comparison is: Milwaukee tax rate, $33.55 on $1000 valuation; St. Louis, $25.90. The Milwaukee tax rate is thus seen to be 28 per cent higher than the St. Louis rate.

Assessments in Milwaukee and St. Louis appear to be on about the same level of values. Milwaukee's total assessed valuation is $773,000,000, or 72 per cent of the $1,070,000,000 assessed in St. Louis. Milwaukee's population (1920 census) was 578,249, or 70 per cent of the St. Louis figure, which was 821,960.

State Property Tax Suspended. The tax rate comparison just made does not include state taxes. The Missouri State tax rate is $1.20 on the $1000, and this, added to the city and school rate of $25.90, makes the final rate of $27.10 which is levied on St. Louis taxpayers for city and State government and schools.

Wisconsin gets its State revenue chiefly from its State income tax and its gasoline tax. These so nearly suffice for the State's needs that it is possible for the Governor to suspend the State property tax in any year when, in his judgment, the State can get along without it. This year, Gov. La Follette has suspended the property tax, and consequently, the city and county rate already cited, $33.55, represents the entire taxes that Milwaukee has to pay. This rate is still 24 per cent higher than the total city, state and school rate paid in St. Louis.

A comparison of city budget estimates for the next fiscal year, exclusive of schools, water works, but including bond interest and sinking funds, shows St. Louis as planning to spend $28,284,090 for these purposes, and Milwaukee $23,805,970. Again it is to be remembered that the St. Louis figures include all courts, welfare institutions and other costs of county government, and that Milwaukee's figures do not include these items, which are paid from the treasury of Milwaukee County. Milwaukee County has a net budget of $7,360,000, but about one-fifth of the county's population lives outside the City of Milwaukee, hence an exact comparison of the cost of Milwaukee's government with that of St. Louis, which is a self-contained city-county, is not possible.

Some Comparisons. Milwaukee's general bill, under the four heads of general office, alarm service, police service and buildings and grounds, reaches a total of $2,652,388. St. Louis' Police Department appropriation, fixed by a State board, which city officials are without power to alter, is $5,453,900.

FILIPINO LEADERS ARGUE THEIR CASE FOR INDEPENDENCE

Mere Grant of Autonomy Not Enough, Osmena Tells House Insular Affairs Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Independence with or without concessions, was sought by Philippine leaders today in opening their fight for congressional action.

"Any mere grant of autonomy will not satisfy the Filipinos," Senator Sergio Osmena, acting president of the Insular Senate, told the House Insular Affairs Committee at the beginning of hearings on measures to withdraw American sovereignty from the islands.

Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the Philippine House of Representatives, said the underlying cause of discontent of Filipinos is their present uncertain status. They are neither citizens of the United States nor foreigners to this country, he said.

Financial Stability Pointed Out. Roxas said they based their hopes on promises of independence given by every President since McKinley. He added the Philippine people had built up a civilization and administration qualifying them for fulfillment of America's promise to them. He pointed to financial stability of the insular government as exemplified in the balancing of its budget, its sound currency which, he said, is on a gold exchange basis and backed by a reserve in excess to the amount of currency in circulation.

Senator Osmena said the agitation started three years ago in the United States to exclude Filipinos from citizenship, and to curtail their privileges in markets of this country has "cast a cloud of uncertainty over Philippine economic conditions, and is checking our development."

Not Afraid of Tariff. Admitting that independence with an immediate United States tariff against their products would be a hardship, Philippine spokesmen declared that even such a burden would not be too great when balanced against the advantage of complete freedom.

They argued the Philippine budget was balanced and that at the close of 1931 there was a surplus of more than 2,500,000 pesos ($1,750,000), with an additional unexpended 7,000,000 pesos ($5,000,000) available.

As only a handful of Americans hold posts in the Philippine administration, they argued Filipinos could take over the Government without friction or interruption if independence is granted.

DR. BUTLER DECLARES LIBERTY IS ON TRIAL

Columbia U. Head Urges American Public to Shake Off Lethargy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The fate of the world is hanging in the balance, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, says in his book, "Looking Forward," published today.

Dr. Butler, winner of the 1931 Nobel peace prize with Miss Jane Addams, stated his view in the foreword of his collection of published essays and addresses.

"The time has fully come," says Dr. Butler, "when those who would face forward must so exert and assert themselves and must so stimulate and direct public opinion that their constructive, liberal and highly patriotic views will shape public policy. There is no time to be lost, for the fate of the world, which liberty has so long ruled in proud confidence, is hanging in the balance."

"Those social, economic and political institutions which the modern world has built upon a foundation whose cornerstone is liberty, are now on trial and under fire as never before in their history."

"If the citizenship of the United States will shake off its customary political lethargy, will rise above narrow provincialism, bigotry and prejudice, and will assume a reasonable share of the responsibility which belongs to it, there can be no good reason why the institutions of liberty... shall not continue to grow stronger."

"The last place to look for security is in armaments, and the last place to look for prosperity is through isolation."

GANG WAR ENDS EXTORTION FROM ITALIAN BRIDAL PAIRS

Kidnaping, Arson and Murder Committed Until Leader of Band Is Killed.

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy, Jan. 22.—Young men and women of this region, long held in terror by gangsters who demanded tribute from those wishing to wed, are happy again. An unprecedented number of wedding notices has been filed, since for the first time in months matrimony can be contracted without payment for "protection."

The gang sent its "tax collector" to call when someone wished to wed, and if he were turned away the bride was kidnapped, the pair's home was burned or the bridegroom was murdered.

A gang war ended the "racket." Giuseppe Vizzari, leader of the band, shot it out with a rival and was killed. The police then captured 12 members of the gang.

ADVISER OF EX-KAISER DIES

POSDAM, Germany, Jan. 22.—Gen. Baron Moritz von Lyncker, once chief of former Kaiser Wilhelm's military cabinet, died yesterday. He was 78 years old.

In 1927 he quarreled violently with Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz, now dead, who in his memoirs accused von Lyncker of having exercised a strong influence on the Kaiser during the war.

Von Lyncker was appointed chief of the Imperial German Military Cabinet in 1908 and occupied the post until July 30, 1918.

German Pilots Learn to Glide. BERLIN, Jan. 22.—German passenger pilots now must take a course in glider flying before they can obtain pilot certificates. Aviation interests claim the measure increases the safety factor.

SPANISH TROOPS TAKE CENTERS OF RED REBELLION

Occupy Without Resistance Catalan Villages Where "Workers' Republics" Were Set Up.

MADRID, Jan. 22.—Word from Catalonia today said troops had taken over half a dozen villages where "Workers' Republics" were set up yesterday during what the Government described as a Communist rebellion.

The soldiers were in Manresa, Berga, Sabadell, Suris, Cardener and Frigola, the report said, and at no point did they meet with resistance. These towns, all close together, were the center of the rebellion.

The Premier was given a vote of confidence, 255 to 5, in the National Assembly.

Extremists were reported to have seized control of the local governments at Berga, Sabadell and other towns, and to have proclaimed a "social revolution."

At Saragossa a church and a convent were badly damaged by bombs. The explosions broke many windows in nearby buildings. Police attributed the bombings to anarchists who, they said, stole dynamite from a construction warehouse.

Army and civil guard detachments poured into Saragossa, Gerona, Lerida and nearby towns. Two battalions of light infantry, a squadron of cavalry and a battery of artillery were ordered into action.

The Government commandeered the trans-Atlantic liner Buenos Aires, put a number of prisoners aboard to cruise "without destination" until further orders.

More than 100 persons were arrested in Barcelona in a series of raids on left-wing labor groups. Police said they found propaganda calling for a general revolutionary strike.

At Madrid the Jesuits were still waiting for the official publication of the decree dissolving the order and in Catholic circles it was reported the superior had ordered the Jesuits to continue living in the country as private citizens, since

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never for corruption; that it will always fight for the public welfare, never for the private interests of any party, always for the oppressed and the public plunderers, never for the oppressors; that it will always be devoted to the public welfare, never satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Mr. Hoover's Opportunity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The world events of the hour, by timely and intelligent action at Washington, may bring climax and super-climax.

England and France may be joined by others in suggesting a several-year moratorium, which the United States will be invited to accept. Rather than being embarrassed thereby, it gives President Hoover a brilliant opportunity.

He can reply that America wishes peace and prosperity, not only at home but in all the world, and that we are willing to make material sacrifice to obtain this greater good; that to accomplish this, however, the money otherwise payable to the United States must be used constructively and not destructively; that there must be no further expenditure by the debtor countries for armaments until their debts to us have been paid; that the extension of the loans is to help industry and the arts of peace and that we will agree to an extension on those terms.

Public opinion, both in Europe and America, would respond approvingly. Europe's rulers would be well-nigh compelled to accept the conditions. If they did not, there would at least be a new definition of America's attitude and a new proof of her ideals. If the plan were accepted, there would immediately be hope and new confidence everywhere. Billions of dollars would be released for the use of industry. World trade would revive. Our own expenditures for armaments could safely be discontinued and the depression would give way to optimism and cheer.

Instead of a buyers' strike, we would then have a buyers' panic, everyone trying to place orders before prices had greatly advanced. The immediate result in themselves would be enough to compel congressional approval. All these seem practical possibilities—assuming that Washington should act.

J. O. VESPEN.

Prefers Editorials Based on Reason.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
NOTE with some interest a letter by one who signs the name, "Believer in Square Deal." The basis of his criticism is that you do not publish enough pep and passion into your editorials.

As one who finds your editorial page a tonic for the usual run of comment, and as one who differs in politics and opinion from you on many important questions, may I say that your policy of subtle editorial "ripping" has the old, crude and passionate rhapsody beaten 20 ways?

It strikes me that public questions and public persons should be discussed in the light of judgment and reason. Otherwise, the perspective of the masses who look to your editorial page for enlightenment is lost.

Perhaps the old system sounds better, but your system will stand the cold analysis of the skeptical who are unmoved by rhetoric and flimsy but high-sounding sophistries.

When Banking Dominates Business.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
PRACTICALLY all financial and commercial work of the people are caused by banking, originally a handy division of business to simplify barter, which has become a dictatorship that has come to dominate business.

Banking has enveloped itself and its transactions in a pseudo-religious veil, to emerge in each depression and solemnly proclaim its one stock cure-all, to wit: "Inflate money and boom business." The fact that all fictitious booms always collapse never varies the formula.

To expect banking to supply a practical plan for stabilizing business within reasonable limits is idle, but subversive banking to business, as it should be, and business will quickly regulate itself. The present system, whereby the stored wealth of the people is used by a few individuals as their own capital for personal profit, is absurd. How can business ever be stable so long as bankers secretly juggle its wealth?

The laudable enterprise of the Post-Dispatch, in undertaking the study and complete publication of practices and methods of international bankers, has a value far beyond computation. To suppose that such practices are confined to international bankers is childish.

The independent press can render no more vital service to the nation than to expose, and continue to expose, questionable banking to public view, until such time that all banking transactions affecting the whole people are by law made a matter of public record open to all.

Turning Away a Mother and Child.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A MOTHER and her baby on a recent cold night, called at one of our so-called charitable institutions for shelter. This organization is a member of our Community Fund, supported by the public. She was told: "I am sorry, but we cannot help you and your baby. The rules forbid." Ye gods! I am beginning to believe the rules forbid all charity. Let's have an investigation so we can find out why it is that the Community Fund.

MAN AND MACHINE.

No one who read in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch the statistical article by Charles N. Edge on man and the machine can doubt the increasing seriousness of this great problem.

Mr. Edge showed that whereas in the last 12 years the population has increased 16 per cent, and the production and distribution of goods has increased even more, the increase in the quantity and efficiency of machinery has displaced from manufacturing industries 2,500,000 wage earners, despite absorption of labor by new industries and shortening of the working week. He also showed that whereas the railroads of the United States in 1919 employed 1,960,000 men, the number had in 1929 decreased to 1,690,000, although both freight and passenger mileage had increased. He also showed that the mechanization of farming had caused the farm population of the United States to decline in 12 years from 30,000,000 to 27,000,000, where it should have increased to 35,000,000.

We do not have to look beyond St. Louis to realize a peril as to which warnings were sounded in the Fiftieth Anniversary edition of the Post-Dispatch by Dean Inge and Sidney Hillman. The work of covering the River des Peres epitomizes the whole situation. One of the big steam shovels in that major operation scoops up eight tons of dirt in 45 seconds. In five minutes it has loaded 50 cars. A single lever dumps all those cars simultaneously. The steam shovel digs 20 hours a day, and in those 20 hours it removes approximately 10,000 tons of earth. It runs right through Sunday, day in and day out, as tireless as it is remorseless. When the sewer is laid and covered up, what are known as drag-line excavators, even greater than steam shovels, are brought in to heat the wound. One machine drives piles, another pulls them. Still another mixes concrete. On section E, 325 men are employed. Of this number, 160 are shovelers, track men, dumpers and concrete tamers. There are 40 paper workers and fatigue men. Machinery costing $300,000 and 70 men do work that could not be duplicated by 7000 men and 1000 mules. Ten thousand men working in 10-hour shifts could not compete with the great shovels and excavators on the job. The dirt mechanically hauled and dumped could not be taken away by 5000 mules. Our great machines could have built in 10 days the great pyramid at Gizeh which Herodotus tells us employed 100,000 men, chiefly slaves, for 20 years. They could within one-tenth of the time and with a few operators have built the Roman port at Ostia, upon which we are told, 30,000 men worked for 11 years.

The philosopher, Oswald Spengler, believes the machine will devour our Western civilization. It is infectious. It is increasing over vast areas of the earth. Russia, a few years ago the last country which one had supposed would adopt what Bertrand Russell calls our mechanistic civilization, has gone in for it even more furiously than we ever went in for it ourselves. The motive power of the five-year plan is machinery—machines for the generation of power, machines for the highways, machines for the farms. Great numbers of American engineers have been taken to Russia to institute this great transformation in the life of a people which had not changed since the army of Genghis Khan bled the blood of the Tartar with the blood of the Slav. Not many years ago, the great wheat harvest in America attracted labor from almost every part of the country. Today, wheat is almost entirely harvested by machinery. The combine, as it is called, cuts, threshes and sacks the wheat in the field. There, as in a thousand and one industries, the whole operation is done by a single machine, attended by almost no human labor but an operator or an oiler.

In New York State, eight daily newspapers in the Westchester group set their type by wire with a typesetter similar to the so-called automatic printer which has driven most of the telegraph operators out of news rooms. The linotype operator, like the old glassblower, is out of it. All newspapers have long been setting their type with machinery. The great locomotives upon our American railroads carry all ways more freight, but they are manned by no more trainmen. The tank car doubles in size, but no additional brakemen are required. In the South, the cotton picker, one of the last great fields of labor remaining to man, is about to be displaced by human invention. When the Bell Telephone Co. placed its wires underground between St. Louis and Kansas City, it introduced a variety of machinery which graphically illustrated the true cause of growing unemployment. One machine cut the trench. Another machine filled in the trench. Still another machine tamped the fill. In countless factories which formerly teemed with workers, those great hives of industry in which the masses found their daily bread, there are left only a few tenders who make the rounds of the machines. Around the corner is the bread line.

Mr. Edge thinks this machine era, which has revolutionized the world in which we live, must revolutionize also our bewildered thoughts. For instance, he thinks we must take the tax from the land and transfer it to the machine. There is, of course, but one way in which this can be done. It can be done only by means of collecting income taxes from those who profit by the machine. We cannot stop the invention of machinery. Nor can we prohibit its use. What we must do, and what we can do if we will adapt our thinking to this modern problem, is to discover how we can all live with the machine, lest it devour us.

LYTTON STRACHEY, BIOGRAPHER.

"Historian's English is not a style," said Philip Guedalla: "It is an industrial disease." The workers in this dangerous trade are required to adopt a detached standpoint—that is, to write as if they took no interest in the subject." Lytton Strachey never fell victim to this occupational ailment. His style was crystal-clear and a delight to the reader; his detachment was not that of a scholar rewriting dusty manuscripts, but of a disembodied observer, at say, Victoria and Albert's comfortable tea table.

Strachey shared Guedalla's feeling that biography had fallen upon evil days. "These two fat volumes, with which it is our custom to commemorate the dead," he wrote, "who does not know them, with their ill-digested masses of material, their slipshod style, their tone of tedious panegyric, their lamentable lack of selection?" It was his fortune, in the relatively brief literary career which has just closed with his untimely death, to change all that. He became the founder, and the best, of the new biographical school. Imitators have debased the Strachey technique into psychoanalytic pontifications, into recitals of scandal about the great, into glorifications of minor miscreants. The professional debunkers, following only part of his gospel, have put biography among the best sellers. Strachey remains the master, reminding us with bland irony that Victoria was both Queen and housewife, that Elizabeth could love as well as rule, that there were human frailties behind such magnificent reputations as those of Dr. Arnold, Cardinal Newman, Florence Nightingale and Gen. Gordon.

Literary funerals in two-toned mausoleums have become obsolete since Strachey taught that biography could be made interesting; that it could have "a becoming brevity which excludes everything that is redundant and nothing that is significant." He made his characters flesh and blood; he bared their foibles and gave credit to their nobilities in prose that flowed and rippled. Strachey's influence on Clive's art will be a long-lived heritage.

THE PROBLEM OF AUTO DEATHS.

St. Louis yesterday entered the inter-city traffic safety contest, designed at the National Congress of Safety Councils last fall to cope with the appalling increase in automobile injuries and deaths.

In 1931, 170 persons in St. Louis were killed by automobiles, as against 156 the year before, and thus far in 1932 nine persons have lost their lives. Whereas, in the past, comparison between cities rested wholly on deaths per 100,000 population, the safety contest will bring in other factors, such as rate of improvement, effectiveness of courts, conditions of traffic engineering, safety education of children and the like. We believe the contest will do much to spur cities to greater efforts to prevent auto deaths, injuries and property damage.

If any reminder were needed that St. Louis must come to grips with the traffic problem, the recent announcement of the insurance companies of a 25 per cent rate in liability rates brings the lesson home. These rates, compared with other types of insurance, are already high. The insurance companies claim that they are so beset with damage claims and suits, many of which are trumped up, that the rate rise is necessary. By vigorous opposition to false claims by the insurance companies, and such devices as the safety contest, the liability rates may be brought down again.

In connection with the safety contest, it is pertinent to point out that Missouri has not yet availed itself of one of the most effective preventive measures, namely, the drivers' license law. An effort to enact one failed at the last Legislature, but it should be renewed at the next meeting. Kansas City has passed a city ordinance requiring drivers to pass examinations, and the Board of Aldermen might well consider making such a provision here, to fill in while we await a State law.

An elaborate study made by the National Safety Council of drivers' license legislation caused it to arrive at the following conclusions:

Nine states which have passed such laws, with examinations, since 1916 have had 29 per cent fewer motor vehicle fatalities than they would have had if they had experienced the same percentage increase as the other states.

Up to Dec. 31, 1929, when the laws were in effect on an average of only eight years, the drivers' license laws were responsible for saving 22,000 lives.

If all states should adopt such laws, in a few years there would be a saving of 5000 lives annually.

States having drivers' license laws, with the important requirement that drivers must take examinations, are: Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, California, Vermont, Arizona, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

It is reported by the National Safety Council that 33,000 persons were killed in 1931 by automobiles in the United States.

CARRYING ON THE NAME OF BERGER.

President Woolley of Mount Holyoke will not be the only American woman at the disarmament conference. Mrs. Victor L. Berger, widow of the Socialist Congressman, is on her way to Geneva with two trunkfuls of petitions bearing the names of more than 400,000 persons in favor of universal disarmament. Hers is the quiet manner of the educator—she has been a member of the Milwaukee Board of Education for many years—and her calm conviction that the financial and economic power of the United States obligates it to take the lead in reducing the world's war machine is one which thousands of thinking Americans hold. It is good to read of Mrs. Berger's mission, for, besides indicating the proportions which the popular demand for disarmament has assumed, it brings to mind the moral courage and human qualities of her late husband. Few men suffered more for opposition to the war than Victor Berger, who brooked no compromise with right as he saw it. If his colleagues in the House, who twice denied him his seat, think of their acts in the light of what has come to pass, they may well wonder if he was not right and they were wrong.

FOREIGN-LANGUAGE BONDS.

Senator Costigan of Colorado is convinced that the Government must either exercise definite supervision over foreign loans or keep hands off entirely. If the proposition were submitted to popular vote, "definite supervision" would, we imagine, carry by a majority high, wide and handsome. For, though the evidence is not yet all in, it has been conclusively shown that the bankers sold bonds to American investors which, as in the case of Colombia, the Department of Commerce had described as a poor risk. Had an inkling of the Commerce Department's attitude reached the public, the bankers could not have sold those bonds, though they accompanied each certificate with their autographed photographs and an invitation to dinner. They could not have given the stuff away.

Wasn't the investor entitled to the information possessed by the Department of Commerce? Of course he was. The investor knew nothing, or very little, about conditions in the distant countries whose bonds he was buying. In many instances, he did not know where the particular country was in whose so-called securities he was putting his money; wasn't sure whether it was a green, pink, purple or yellow patch on the map. He wasn't betting on the country. He was betting on the reputation of the banking house that was peddling the pretty paper.

But there is no necessity, in our opinion, for Congress to enact hasty legislation providing for the Government's definite supervision over foreign loans. A juicy graft while it lasted, it is now as dead as Helen or Cleopatra or any of the other girls of yesterday. It will be a long, long time before the American investor buys any more foreign-language bonds. The bankers have got the golden eggs, but they have killed the goose.

THE TRAIL OF DOLLAR DIPLOMACY.

America and European Unity

By Walter Lippmann.

UNLESS it is read with care, the summary, as published in Paris, of Secretary Stimson's memorandum on debts and reparations is likely to cause serious misunderstanding in Europe. The "fourth point" says that "the United States Government would look with displeasure on the formation of a united front by the debtors or nations," and there is likelihood that this will be taken to mean that the United States does not wish to see Britain, France and Germany come to a common understanding on the whole problems of inter-governmental debts.

This cannot be the view of the administration, for such a view would rule out the possibility of a solution of the problem. The correct interpretation of what Mr. Stimson said must be reflected in the "fifth point," which says that the existing debt arrangement "can be eventually revised only by separate accords." There is nothing in this to discourage the European Powers from reaching a common ground among themselves. It requires only that they recognize that the United States does not wish to negotiate with them as a body. What is really ruled out is a general debt conference, with the United States on one side of the table and all of Europe on the other. But nothing has been said, or it seems, seriously intended, that would prevent Europe, from reaching agreements that no one European Power should seek advantages in Washington at the expense of the others.

The phrase about our displeasure at a "united front" is unfortunate, for the one thing that offers real hope in the present situation is that Europe should unite with itself. The post-war reconstruction has been bedeviled by disunity. It is the everlasting maneuvering of the British with the Germans against the French, of the French with the Poles and Czechs against the Germans, of the Italians with the Germans and the Hungarians, which has made any solution impossible. For, in this maneuvering, the financial and economic elements of the reconstruction problem have become overshadowed by the fear of political and military combinations, and a vicious circle set revolving in which France, fearing for her security because of her political isolation, has become irreconcilable on reparations. This in turn has provoked political combinations against her which in their turn have made her more irreconcilable.

The only hope of breaking through this destructive entanglement lies in united action by Britain and France. Only if British and French policy can be brought to a common basis is there a chance of orderly solution. For it is a tragic mistake to think, as so many would like to think, that France can be isolated and coerced. Even if such a policy were desirable, it would be impossible, and at this point in time impossible policies are experimentally expensive.

That it is not easy for London and Paris to agree on reparations is plain. The French formula, as reiterated the other day by M. Laval, amounts to saying that France will not contribute anything to a settlement that France will relinquish only as much as her creditors will forgive her. This is unreasonable, as unreasonable as the declaration of Congress, as unreasonable as Britain's insistence in the Balfour principle, as unreasonable as Hitlerism. It is evident that only compromise by everyone can bring any solution except a solution by collapse, default and repudiation.

The situation would appear to be deadlocked in a tangle of irreconcilable national policies. The art of statesmanship in such a situation is to bring in new elements, and then to shift the ground of debate and alter the climate of the discussion. The art of doing this now lies in a better understanding of the French point of view.

What is it that the French are most concerned about? Is it really the reparation money? They are realists and they know quite as well as anyone that the "due is near. If it has not already come, when the reparation system will be finished.

Why, then, do they now cling to it so strongly? Partly, no doubt, because the French people, like all the other peoples, greatly exaggerate the actual importance of the war debts. But the deeper reason is that France feels herself isolated and believes that, if the Young plan is scrapped, the whole post-war settlement in Europe will come down with it, and that Europe will then enter a period of chaos in which the disoriented nations will seize territory and seek revenge.

There is a good deal in that view, much more than British and American opinion has as yet been willing to admit. At any rate, it is the French view, and the obvious way to meet it is to proceed on the principle of trying to assure France that a abandonment of the Young plan will not leave her diplomatically isolated. Now only Britain can bring that assurance; if Britain does bring it, Italy and Germany must follow. They can maneuver against France alone. They cannot maneuver against a Franco-British entente.

The essential interest of Britain is that there should be a financial and economic settlement in Europe. The essential interest of France is that there should be political and military stability. Why is there not here the basis for agreement which takes account of the essential interests of both countries? Why is it not possible for London and Paris to strike a bargain on reparations and security?

There is no reason why a Franco-British entente of this sort should be in any real sense anti-German. For it is true that French irreconcilability is the result of the French sense of insecurity, the restoration of an entente with Britain should go a very long way toward enabling Frenchmen to act with the generosity that only the strong are capable of. There is much that a France which felt secure could concede to Germany. It could concede a reduction of reparations to a point where no charges on the German taxpayer would be virtually invisible. It could go further. It could offer to repeal the war-guilt clauses, which, while they stand, must always be a moral barrier to good feeling across the Rhine. Finally, it could offer Germany a Loarno in the East, based on the assurance that in quieter times and by pacific means the attempt would be made by negotiations with Poland and Lithuania to see whether a new solution cannot be found.

All of this is difficult. None of it is even conceivable unless London and Paris firmly decide to work together. United, they can begin to clear the air in Europe. Disunity, at odds, each trying to out-manuever the other, they can only injure everyone, themselves included. They need have no fear of our displeasure if they unite. On the contrary, the moment they succeed in altering the atmosphere in Europe, and healing winds begin to blow, the atmosphere will change here. For the sources of the

A Fair Proposal

From the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

IN the matter of the railroad wage dispute, the brotherhoods have submitted to the presidents a proposition which seems to be eminently fair. We will accept the 10 per cent wage cut, they say, if you will agree to put 10 per cent more men back to work.

The railroads have been promising a trifle vaguely, that a reduction in the wage pay would permit them to employ more men. The brotherhoods are willing to allow the basic pay if they can be sure that every cent of it would go toward giving more men jobs.

The railroads can argue that they have no need for more men, because of the small volume of traffic which they haul. But how about passing on the 10 per cent cut in a 10 per cent decrease in freight rates? This would bring the short-haul freight rates down to more nearly a level with trucking rates. It would take freight off the highways and put it back on the trains, where it belongs.

Railroad wages and railroad freight rates are two items in the national budget which are still pegged at the 1929 level. If wages should come down, freight rates should certainly reflect the cut. Irrespective of wage reductions, a cut in freight rates bringing them back into line with competitive forms of transportation would undoubtedly bring about a large increase in gross railroad revenues.

The blame for the railroads' present plight lies not so much with their wage agreements as it does with the short-sightedness of their various traffic departments. From every standpoint, the proposal made by the brotherhoods is a fair one and economically sound.

YOUTH OPPOSES WAR.

From the New York World-Telegram.

SINCE youth is always called upon to do the fighting, it is interesting to inquire how youth feels about war and the preparedness for war. Such an inquiry has recently been made by the Intercollegiate Disarmament Council of New York. A straw vote in 70 colleges throughout the United States, among students of both sexes, reveals that:

Out of 24,345 students voting, 92 per cent favored reducing armaments and 63 per cent favored the United States setting the example by beginning to disarm without waiting for action of other nations. One-third favored 100 per cent cuts in armaments, provided all nations agree to the same ratio, while one in seven advocated a 100 per cent cut for the United States, regardless of action by other nations. Out of 17,760 students voting on the question of military training in colleges, 81 per cent opposed compulsory training; on the other hand, only 18 per cent favored abolishing all military training. Out of 17,386 students voting on the World Court, 74 per cent urged adherence by the United States upon the basis of the Root protocols.

These tests are highly significant. The students voting were small children during the great war and have no shocking memories of that horror to guide their sentiments. In spite of persistent propaganda by the patrioters and jingoists, they are choosing the way of peace.

American mood about all European things simply reflects the disappointment of Americans.

What the American people would like to see in Europe is some evidence of European reconstruction. What they would like to hear from Europe is a little good news.

YOUTH OPPOSES WAR.

New York World-Telegram.

Youth is always called upon to do fighting. It is interesting to inquire why youth feels about war and the press for war. Such an inquiry has been made by the Intercollegiate Diet Council of New York. A straw poll of 10 colleges throughout the United States showed that 82 per cent of the students are opposed to war. The poll was taken by mail. The results are as follows: 82 per cent of the students are opposed to war, 16 per cent are in favor of war, and 2 per cent are undecided. The poll was taken by the Intercollegiate Diet Council of New York, which is a national organization of dietitians. The poll was taken to determine the attitude of youth toward war. The results show that youth is generally opposed to war. This is a significant finding, especially in view of the fact that war is a major issue in current events. The poll was taken in 1931, and the results are still valid today. Youth's opposition to war is a reflection of their desire for peace and stability. This is a positive trend that should be encouraged.

CENTRALIA, ILL., BRIDGE TEAM IN CITY FINAL

Will Meet Independent St. Louis Group for Championship Tonight at M. A. A.

The big banquet room of the Missouri Athletic Association was dark last night and the card tables arranged in orderly rows for the winter contract bridge tournament were deserted. But from a smaller room on the floor above came the murmur of voices and the swish of riffled cards as four teams played the semifinals in the team-of-four city championship.

When the last hand had been played and the last post-mortem was over, a team from Centralia, Ill., and an unattached team from St. Louis had won the right to meet tonight for the championship. They were the survivors of an original field of 25 four-player teams, including the crack players of most of St. Louis' card clubs.

The Centralia team includes two brothers, S. A. Perrine and D. B. Perrine. Mrs. Jean Gerould and J. J. Parrish.

The unattached team's players are Harvey Frolichstein, Harold Leopold, E. A. Stein and Walter Stern.

In the play the Perrines are paired at one table and Mrs. Gerould and Parrish at another for Centralia. The partners on the unattached team are Frolichstein and Leopold, Stein and Stern.

First Three Hands from Deck.

Before the meeting last night, the players gathered in the center of the team room, where Millard P. Kaiser, director of the winter tournament, explained the rules. Each table was to play 12 hands. The first three at each table were to deal from the deck. At the conclusion of play they were to be placed in the duplicate beam, which were then passed from table to table so that in the course of the evening each group played the same hands.

Then contestants took their places at the table one in each corner of the room. Cigarettes and cigars were lighted, the Perrine brothers packed up their pipes, the cards were cut and dealt and the bidding and play were carried on almost in whispers so that no information might pass between tables. Waiters glided in and out of the room carrying tall glasses of ice water which the players drank ceaselessly. Post-hand discussions were carried on in the same subdued tones, and only once, when each table finished a series of three boards together, were voices raised.

Partners Not Criticized.

Here, the proprietries of the bridge room found utmost obedience. There was no talking across the table during play, no criticism of partner's play except in a spirit of useful discussion, no show of emotion at "bust" hands, no variation in voice as long-shot bids were made.

As the last hand ended there was a sudden burst of animated conversation. The players gathered in the middle of the room, handed in their score cards, discussed the handling of outstanding hands at each of the tables, finally went home.

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 22. — After a labor disturbance in which five persons were wounded and 20 arrested, authorities here said last night that labor organizations, including extremists in Spain, would declare a general strike Monday. Last night's trouble arose when several thousand workmen held a noisy street demonstration over a withdrawal of the Government's order dissolving the Confederation of Labor.

The crowd refused to obey an order to disperse. Police, assisted by Republican guards, charged the crowd with clubs. Authorities said many Spaniards were among those arrested.

MARY WIGMAN WINS AUDIENCE BY SKILL

German Modernist Dancer Effective, but Her Art Lacks Pathos.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

PRECISION, power and god-like self control were the distinguishing attributes of Mary Wigman's dancing as manifested in her recital at the Odeon last night. It was her first appearance in St. Louis and a large audience, an audience consisting of earnest students of the dance, curious students of all sorts of contemporary phenomena as well as the usual seekers after diversion, followed her program with a peculiar fascination.

Having been exploited as a great new force in dancing and the founder of that compact, expressionistic modern German school, her appearance was naturally anticipated as a kind of revelation. That such a revelation was being made was obvious after her first movement even though its exact nature escaped easy classification. There was an immediate manifestation of superb co-ordination and self-mastery. The act of planting one foot in front of the other had a directness, an economy of effort, and a suggestion of limitless strength. That being so every movement was capable of giving one a feeling of intense satisfaction since it seemed geared up to some immutable and underlying principle of order.

Moreover there was a directional force constantly at work—a force such as emanates from every great artist—and it was the significant play of that force that made Miss Wigman an artist rather than a superior gymnast. Her postures, considered one by one, had in their relationship of parts their distribution of mass and suggestion of contrasting planes, the significance of great sculpture and this sculptural impression remained even after the postures were connected in a flowing line. The added dynamic elements so intensified this impression that the net effect was somewhat the same as if one had viewed many phases of the same subject by the same master in a hall of statues.

All of this being true, one was a little disturbed at finding that none of it seemed to release the emotions. The sense of having been purged was absent from one's category of reactions and the reason seems to be that Miss Wigman's art is lacking in pathos. At no time does it lead you out to the edge of things and invite you to contemplate the dark and limitless spaces. In some curious way her sphere of action is delimited and what she suggests—and her movements are certainly very strongly suggestive—is the answer in the back of the book rather than an eternally receding horizon.

It was her first appearance in St. Louis and a large audience, an audience consisting of earnest students of the dance, curious students of all sorts of contemporary phenomena as well as the usual seekers after diversion, followed her program with a peculiar fascination.

Her program was divided into four parts and her accompaniments were supplied by two assistants playing the piano and reed and percussion instruments. The melodic elements in such music as she used was kept to a minimum and although her rhythms often divided quite naturally into measures, it was obvious that the accompaniments derived from and corroborated the dance movements. The audience was continuously interested and highly enthusiastic.

PUMPKIN MUFFINS

Bring to scald one and a half cups of milk, cool until lukewarm, then dissolve in it a crumbled yeast cake. Cream one-half cup of butter, add one-half cup of sugar and one teaspoon of salt. Mix with butter, etc., one and one-half cups drained cooked pumpkin, fresh or canned, then add milk and yeast cake.

OUR FOREIGN FRIENDS OFFER THESE RECIPES

London Salad, Italian Spaghetti and Normandy Pot Roast.

A London restaurant serves chicken salad in which pineapple and nuts are mixed, in Normandy the pot roast is flavored with apricots, and in Italy the spaghetti is highly seasoned—and here in this week's foreign recipes you may learn just how it is done.

London Chicken Salad.
Take one cup cooked diced chicken, one cup diced pineapple, one cup diced raw apples and one cup broken walnuts. Add enough mayonnaise to make salad the right consistency and serve on crisp lettuce.

Italian Spaghetti.
Cook one pound spaghetti in a large pan of boiling water for 20 minutes. Add two teaspoons salt to the water and do not break the spaghetti, but lower it gradually into the water. The sticks will soften as they reach the water. While the spaghetti is cooking, put two tablespoons fat in a frying pan, add one-half cup ham cut in small pieces, a large minced onion and half a green pepper cut in shreds. Cook for seven minutes, then add one-half cup tomato paste and one-half cup water. Season to taste with salt and pepper and let cook for 15 minutes, adding a little more water if the sauce boils down too much. Drain the spaghetti, add the sauce and mix lightly with a fork. Serve on a hot platter and sprinkle thickly with grated Italian cheese.

Normandy Pot Roast.
Three pounds rump roast, one-half head cabbage, sliced carrots, small onion, small can tomato soup, layer of rice, celery, one-half pound apricots soaked soft, water (small soup can full).
Brush roast with melted fat, rub with flour and a little salt and sear until well browned. Then surround the roast with the other ingredients in layers in order given. Roast in covered roaster from three to four hours at very low heat. To serve, slice meat on chop platter and surround with vegetables and fruit, disturbing the layers as little as possible.

Strained Vegetable Soup.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs; then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Divide batter in two parts. To one part, add spices and molasses. Place light and dark mixtures alternately, a tablespoon at a time, in greased pan. Bake in moderate oven 50 minutes. Ice if desired.

Pumpkin Pie.
Mix together two and one-half cups canned pumpkin, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon each of nutmeg, cinnamon and ginger with two eggs and one and three-quarters milk. Beat well and use in one crust pastry.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING

Cook two squares chocolate in one-half cup water to a thick paste. Add three-fourths cup sugar, one-half cup raisins, one-half cup milk and one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon. Cook until thick enough to coat spoon. Cool, add one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup chopped nuts and one pint whipped cream. Place in automatic refrigerator, and freeze until firm.

Walnut Icing.
A good black walnut icing for spice cake may be made by adding a little black walnut flavoring to plain white icing and then sprinkling a few of the chopped nuts over the surface of the icing.

MACARONI RECIPES GIVEN BY REQUEST
 Cutlets, Hash and Custard Among the Variations Possible.

We are asked for macaroni hash and cutlets recipes, "and any other way that is a change from the familiar baked cheese and macaroni method," so also add a custard and a combination in which dried beef is used, which appears on the Menus for the Week in this issue.

Macaroni With Dried Beef.
 Break one-half pound macaroni in small pieces and cook in plenty of boiling salted water for 9 to 15 minutes, or until tender. Drain and add two cups milk, two tablespoons butter and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Sprinkle in three tablespoons flour and stir until the mixture is thickened and boiling. Separate one-half pound dried beef into small pieces, cover with boiling water, drain and add to the macaroni. Peel one-fourth pound mushrooms, scrape the stems and cut the mushrooms in thin slices, adding them to the macaroni. Pour into a greased baking dish, spread a layer of grated cheese and bread-crumbs over the macaroni, using one-half cup each. Bake in a moderate oven until brown on top. Serve with a tomato or cabbage salad.

Macaroni Cutlets.
 Macaroni cutlets are good for lunch or dinner, especially if they contain a little chopped ham or tongue. Break one-half pound macaroni in pieces, boil until tender, drain and mix with one cup milk, four tablespoons flour, four tablespoons butter, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and one-half teaspoon salt. Stir until boiling, remove from the fire and add one cup chopped cooked ham, leftover beef, tongue or any flaked fish, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and one tablespoon catsup. ## MACARONI RECIPES

GIVEN BY REQUEST

Cutlets, Hash and Custard Among the Variations Possible.

We are asked for macaroni hash and cutlets recipes, "and any other way that is a change from the familiar baked cheese and macaroni method," so also add a custard and a combination in which dried beef is used, which appears on the Menus for the Week in this issue.

Macaroni With Dried Beef.
 Break one-half pound macaroni in small pieces and cook in plenty of boiling salted water for 9 to 15 minutes, or until tender. Drain and add two cups milk, two tablespoons butter and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Sprinkle in three tablespoons flour and stir until the mixture is thickened and boiling. Separate one-half pound dried beef into small pieces, cover with boiling water, drain and add to the macaroni. Peel one-fourth pound mushrooms, scrape the stems and cut the mushrooms in thin slices, adding them to the macaroni. Pour into a greased baking dish, spread a layer of grated cheese and bread-crumbs over the macaroni, using one-half cup each. Bake in a moderate oven until brown on top. Serve with a tomato or cabbage salad.

Macaroni Cutlets.

Peanut Brittle Mousse.
 Peanut brittle, run through the meat chopper and mixed with whipped cream one-half pound brittle to one cup heavy cream, whipped stiff) makes a delicious mousse when frozen in the refrigerator or in crushed ice and left.

Chocolate Squares
 Melt two squares unsweetened chocolate over hot water, stir in one-half cup powdered sugar, the beaten yolk of one egg and one-fourth cup milk. Stir constantly until thickened and smooth, remove from the fire and cool slightly. Cream one-fourth cup sugar with two tablespoons butter and when well blended add one egg yolk and beat thoroughly. Stir in one-fourth cup milk, then one and one-half cups sifted cake flour mixed and sifted again with one-quarter teaspoon baking soda and one teaspoon baking powder. When well mixed add the chocolate mixture and one-half cup chopped walnuts or pecans. Pour into a greased pan about one and one-half inches deep, filling the pan a little more than half full. Bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes until firm. Cool in the pan, ice with chocolate or white icing and cut in small squares for serving.

Banana Float.
 Mash three ripe bananas to a cream, add one-half cup sugar and beat. Beat whites of three eggs stiff, and fold in the banana mixture. Serve with whipped cream.

French Dressing.
 French dressing may be made in quantity and small amounts varied slightly from day to day. For Russian French dressing, add chili sauce and a few drops of onion juice. For cheese French dressing, work two tablespoons butter until creamy, add two tablespoons cheese and when well blended add French dressing slowly, mixing well.

Jellied Fruit and Walnut Salad
 Soften one and one-half tablespoons gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water five minutes. Add one-half cup boiling water, one-half cup sugar and stir until dissolved. Add one cup apple cut in cubes, two cups orange pulp and juice, one-half cup walnuts cut in pieces, and three tablespoons lemon juice. Mix thoroughly.

Put into individual molds which have been dipped in cold water and chill until firm. Remove from molds and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with a whipped cream dressing and whole walnut kernels.

CINNAMON-APPLE SALAD

Core three tart, firm apples, peel and cut in half lengthwise. Simmer in sugar syrup made by boiling together one and one-half cups sugar, one and one-half cups water and one tablespoon little red cinnamon candies for eight minutes. Cook the apples slowly in the syrup until they are tender and colored pink. Remove from the syrup, chill and arrange on lettuce, cut side of the apple uppermost. Mash a cream cheese with one tablespoon rich milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pa-

HAM WITH GRAPE JELLY

Allow boiled ham to cool slightly in the water in which it was cooked. Remove from the water, pull off the skin, and cut off some of the superfluous fat. Spread the ham generously with brown sugar, and insert cloves about one inch apart. Bake in a roasting pan for 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from the oven, spread thickly with tart grape jelly, and bake for 30 minutes longer, or until well glazed. Serve hot or cold, sliced thin.

CULINARY HINTS

ON MANY SUBJECTS

Some Old and Some New Suggestions for the Home Cook.

Paprika is one of the most useful of seasonings, both in color and flavor. There are two kinds, the Spanish paprika which is very mild in flavor, and the Hungarian which has a characteristic pungent flavor and is more generally used. Keep a can of paprika in a handy place on your flavoring shelf and you will find many uses for it.

Mix one can concentrated tomato soup with one-fourth cup boiling water and three-fourths cup finely cut cheese and stir over a slow fire until the cheese melts. Serve at once on toast or crackers and have a savory tomato rabbit. Excellent for Sunday night suppers or after-the-movie snacks.

Try shaved red cabbage for slaw as a change from the usual variety. Make in the same way, or mix the cabbage with apples and walnuts as for Waldorf salad, serving with mayonnaise.

Diced carrots and string beans cooked together and served with a cream sauce make a good vegetable combination. Use one cup diced carrots to one pound string beans, boil for 25 minutes, then do not drain, but add one cup milk, two tablespoons butter, salt and pepper to season and two tablespoons fine-cut chives. Stir until boiling and until the sauce has thickened. When cooking, add water to just cover the vegetables; when they are done, there should be about one cup liquid left.

Cereal as rice, any of the whole-wheat or wheat cereals or oatmeal, served with raisins, dates, prunes or figs, will often tempt an appetite that is finicky in regard to the plain cereal. Add the fruit a few minutes before serving, or about 10 minutes before, so that it has time to plump and heat, but not become mushy. Serve with cream or milk and sugar in the usual way.

The pulp of stewed or steamed prunes (leave out all the juice) mixed with walnut or pecan nut meats makes a fine filling for open-faced sandwiches for afternoon tea. One-quarter cup prune pulp with one-half cup nut meats will spread about a dozen tiny sandwiches. Cut the bread in fancy shapes, spread lightly with butter and then with a generous layer of the prune filling. These are surprisingly good, especially on wholewheat bread.

Lemon juice is good to remove the odor that clings to smoked fish dishes. Rub the juice over a cut lemon, and try another piece on your fingers!

A good filling for tarts may be made as follows: Stew one pound of apricots until soft after having soaked them for two hours in warm water. Cool, mash and add one cup sugar.

And a delicious apricot whip may be made thus: Put one cup stewed apricots through a sieve, combine with two cups ground peanut brittle, and one cup whipped cream. Chill well before serving.

CARROT SALADS

Dissolve one package lemon gelatin in cold water then add one pint hot water and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Add one and one-half cups of diced raw apples, one cup of grated or ground raw carrots. When cool pour into molds and serve with mayonnaise.

Par three raw carrots and one-half medium-sized onion. Grind them with one stalk celery. Mix with mayonnaise, place on crisp green shredded lettuce and outline with chopped rice olives.

Banana Bavarian Cream. Soak two tablespoons plain gelatin in one-half cup cold milk for ten minutes. Scald one cup milk. Mix two well-beaten egg yolks with one-half cup sugar and the grated rind of a half a lemon. Add the hot milk gradually and return to the saucepan. Stir constantly until slightly thickened. Remove from the fire, stir in the gelatin and the mashed pulp of three bananas. Add one teaspoon lemon juice and place the pan in a pan of cold water.

Stir occasionally until the mixture begins to thicken, then stir constantly until as thick as cream. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the two eggs and one cup cream whipped stiff. Pour into a quart mold or into six individual molds and set aside to chill and harden.

Fruit Marmalades. Home-made marmalades in small quantities—four or five jars at a time—are easy to make. Cranberries, and the dried fruits, as well as oranges and grapefruit, offer many possibilities just now in this line, and there are a number of interesting combinations such as cranberries and oranges, grapefruit, orange and canned pineapple, cranberry and apple, etc.

Rolls Steak. Buy a good-sized round steak cut about three-fourths inch thick. Lay on a floured board and beat with a wooden mallet or potato masher. Spread any good stuffing in the center of the steak, roll up, sprinkle with salt and pepper, tie with clean cord and place in a casserole with a cup of hot stock or water. Cover the casserole and let cook about one and one-half hours, adding more water or stock if needed.

Figs and Oranges. Canned figs combined with a small amount of diced orange are often pleasing to those who do not like a very sweet fruit for breakfast. Two oranges will be enough to mix with figs for four or five persons. Stewed dried figs may be served in the same way.

FROZEN CHICKEN WITH PINEAPPLE

Mix one and one-half cups diced cooked chicken with three-fourths cup drained, crushed pineapple and one-half cup chopped pecans. Whip one-half pint cream stiff, fold into it one cup mayonnaise. Combine with chicken mixture. Turn into tray or automatic refrigerator and freeze about three hours. This will serve eight persons.

Fruit Relish. Combine one quart cranberries, one and three-quarter pounds sugar, one-half pound seeded raisins, the rind of one orange chopped very fine, one-half cup vinegar, one-half teaspoon each ginger, cloves and cinnamon. Cook until cranberries are tender, stirring occasionally. This may be put in jars to use at any time.

Sardines. Sardines heated in the oil from the can and put between slices of toasted wheat or rye bread with a thin layer of cole slaw make appetizing and substantial luncheon sandwiches.

DISGUISES FOR BRAN ARE APPRECIATED

Waffles and Combined Corn Sticks Will Be Welcome Source of Supply.

Bran, a valuable item in flour and cereals, is sometimes not as popular as it might be, but here are two recipes which should please heretofore reluctant tasters.

Bran Corn Sticks. Three tablespoons shortening, ¼ cup sugar, one egg (well beaten), one and one-half cups milk, one cup bran, three-quarters cup corn meal, one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon salt, four and one-half teaspoons baking powder. Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg, milk, bran and corn meal and let soak until most of the moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder and add to first mixture. Stir only until flour disappears. Cover closely

CRANBERRY TAPIOCA

Cover a quart of cranberries with four cups of boiling water and cook until tender, press through fine sieve in order that no seeds pass through, then return to the fire—there should be just three cups of liquid left. Add a quarter cupful of quick-cooking tapioca and a half to three-quarters of cupful of sugar.

Cook until the tapioca is transparent, then pour into individual molds to chill. Unmold and serve with rosettes of whipped cream.

Vegetable Chop Suey. Mix together one can lima beans, one can tomatoes, one chopped green pepper, one and one-half cups of celery. If you have a cold meat, this may be added. Put in buttered baking dish, bake one hour for one-half hour until tender, sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs, bake covered for one-half hour and serve baking dish.

Orange Fluff. Whip one cup of cream stiff, add fold in one cup quartered marshmallows, and one cup of orange pulp and juice. Serve very cold.

GLAZED ORANGES. Boil seedless oranges whole until quite tender, then cool and halve. Scoop out some of the pulp and fill with a mixture of chopped nuts, crystallized ginger and candied cherries and, if necessary, enough sugar to sweeten.

Place the orange halves in a shallow pan, pour over them a cupful of syrup made by boiling one cupful of sugar with three-quarters of a cupful of water 10 minutes. Glaze in a hot oven.

Ralston Wheat Cereal, now enriched with added vitamin B, actually creates eager appetites.

At last the reason why so many children have poor appetites has been discovered! It's because they do not get enough vitamin B—the appetite-stimulating vitamin. To safeguard against this very common deficiency, Ralston Wheat Cereal has been enriched by adding enough vitamin B to create a normal appetite.

Don't coax an appetite—create one. If your child does not eat willingly—serve Ralston Wheat Cereal regularly. Beside creating normal hunger, Ralston provides all of the elements of whole wheat necessary to maintain health and promote growth.

Every member of your family will enjoy the wholesome flavor of this cereal which cooks in five minutes, and costs less than one cent a serving.

Does your child's cereal pass this test? Pour into your hand a little of the wheat cereal your child eats. If it is a complete cereal it will consist of Brown particles, which provide building materials for flesh, bones and teeth, Yellow particles, rich in vitamins which promote health and stimulate appetite, White particles, which supply warmth and energy. Over-refining or processing removes or destroys some of these health-building properties. To be sure you are getting them all, look for the brown, yellow and white particles. All three are in Ralston.

Losses of 2 to 4 points are numerous in prominent shares—rails are up for time.

By the Associated Press. Jan. 22.—The stock market today on the New York Stock Exchange was a moderate one, with a turnover of only about 1,600,000 shares for the day, but losses of two to four points were numerous in prominent issues.

Heavy losses were first apparent in the industrials and utilities, with rails having a period of strength in the early trading. The carrier issues, however, trended downward as the labor leaders at the Chicago conference had demanded a definite answer on their program for unemployment relief, before further discussion of wage cuts.

Some traders were said to be turning to the view that final approval of the reconstruction measure, and settlement of the railway stock issue in the good news, would result in more "selling on the good news" than buying. Long anticipated favorable developments frequently bring a rush to take profits, on the view that with the good news finally out, no further upward stimulus can be expected from those quarters. These traders, therefore, were inclined to feel that fresh news of favorable character would be needed within the next few days to extend the market's recent advance.

One quarter was inclined to view as unfavorable to the market, the bill introduced in Congress by Senator Glass, which proposes, among other things, to restrict stock market credit. Nevertheless, certain banking quarters are wholly in accord with the principle that measures should be taken to prevent any repetition of the speculative orgy of 1929, and the broker-advocate of limitation continues to show how limitation continues to be affecting the current market, a decline of $2,000,000 in brokers' weekly decline, the twentieth successive.

The weekly figures of the Federal Reserve System disclosed no important change in the trend of operations. A reduction of $27,000,000 was authorized for the week in the volume of reserve credit outstanding. A drop of $7,000,000 in the nation's monetary gold in money in circulation, which was less than seasonal, were principal items of interest.

Recent statements bearing on international gold movements were interpreted favorably by Wall Street. The point was that, both here and in Paris, that the Bank of France was operating with the full approval of American Federal Reserve authorities its plans to withdraw a total of $125,000,000 of French gold balances to that country.

Continued French firmness, and a slump in the French foreign exchange. Sterling cables ruled at $34.54, off 1/4 of a cent, Canadian dollars sagged 3/4 of a cent.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE
By the Associated Press. LONDON, Jan. 22.—Despite the cabinet differences over the tariff question, British government securities, led by the war loan, showed moderate improvement, with some of the support to the war loan coming from Paris. Industrials moved irregularly, with German shares sagging, while German bonds and Argentine rails advanced.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—The unfinished chamber debate on a depressive effect on the Bourse today. Trading was small, but the general position remained satisfactory and the closing was well sustained.

Steel Mill Increases Force.
WARREN, O., Jan. 22.—Operations of the Trumbull plant of the Republic Steel Corporation have been increased and the January payroll will be 30 per cent more than in December, company officials said today.

Another Warren concern, Packard and Electric, reported production 10 to 15 per cent greater than that of last six months.

COTTON MARKET CLOSING

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Trading in cotton was quiet today with fluctuations narrow and the undertone generally steady. A slight opening decline in response to relatively easy cables was followed by rallies, but after selling out from 6.98 to 6.73 for March, prices eased again in sympathy with the easier tone of the afternoon stock market. At 6 o'clock, March was holding around 6.70 with the general market unchanged.

There was a fair volume of business, but orders seemed to be pretty evenly divided and fluctuations were narrow with the market showing no particular feature during the first part of day.

Western belt, reported in parts of the movement, but it attracted little, if any, comment and traders appeared to be awaiting further developments in the general situation.

Liverpool cable reported liquidation of the market and said that the decline in the cotton market was due to the fact that the market was not particularly active during the first part of day.

There were no imports.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Northern Pine Lumber Co. today authorized the payment of a dividend of $1.00 per share on the basis of the stock owned on Jan. 1, 1932.

RECALLS EARLY PANIC LAW IN MISSOURI

Isaac H. Lionberger, Addressing
Historical Society Warns Against Interference With Trade.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 22.—Panic legislation in early Missouri was recalled by Isaac H. Lionberger, St. Louis attorney, at the annual banquet of the State Historical Society of Missouri, held here last night.

Lionberger's address was on "The Romance of Trade," and was chiefly devoted to the trade practices of ancient nations and the guilds of medieval Europe. He drew from the historical record the lesson of non-interference by government with trade, and quoted Burke's saying, "When Governments interfere with markets, all the principles of marketing are subverted."

"That is the lesson we must learn," he said, "and until we shall have learned it prosperity must be delayed. That in time it will return, I have no doubt, but not because the politicians show the way. The needs of the time are less public extravagance, lower taxes, greater liberty, and freedom of trade."

"I quote from our own records the result of an experiment made more than 100 years ago under circumstances similar to those of today. After several years of speculation, in land with wildcat notes, in 1819 the boom collapsed and business prostration followed. In 1821 Gov. McNair, in a special message to the Legislature, urged it to adopt some measure for relief of the distress. A law was thereupon passed authorizing the loan of public credit to worthy persons on easy terms. Three years later, Gov. Bates said in his inaugural address:

"I affect no insensibility to the sufferings of my fellow-citizens. I have partaken of them, or at least I have deeply felt those privations which are the common lot of these times. I only entreat that the remedy for these evils may not again be mistaken. Say the markets are distant, dull and uncertain, that commerce is depressed and exchange of every sort sluggish and unprofitable—are these reasons sufficient to induce us to do nothing, or ten times worse than nothing, by the application of empirical palliatives which soothe for a time and at last render the disease more fatal? No, I say. Let debts be paid, let contracts be complied with, and a redoubled industry, with a curtailment of every superfluous expense, be the means by which these just objects may be attained."

"So our troubles will in time be corrected."

George A. Mahan, Hannibal, was re-elected president of the Historical Society. Edward J. White, St. Louis, was chosen first vice president. Louis T. Golding, St. Joseph, former first vice president, was elected third vice president, replacing the late Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City.

Judge Roy D. Williams, Booneville, was elected a trustee, replacing the late Rollin J. Britton, Kansas City, while W. J. Sewall, Carthage, president of the Missouri Press Association, was chosen a trustee, replacing President Walter Williams of Missouri U., who resigned. All other officers were re-elected.

GERMAN CABINET MEMBER BACKS MUSSOLINI'S VIEW

Defense Minister Groener Indorses
Disarmament and Cancellation of War Debts.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Jan. 22.—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Popolo d'Italia at Milan, published an interview with Wilhelm Groener, German Minister of Defense, who said Germany expected that Italy's policy after the disarmament conference would harmonize with German hopes.

Groener cited Premier Mussolini's recent editorials and his previous speeches in which he declared himself in favor of reduction of armaments, "the right for parity among peoples," and cancellation of war debts.

"I can declare with satisfaction," Gen. Groener is quoted as saying, "that Germany is fully in accord with Italy's ideas. I hope Italy and Germany can continue to work in accord for the success of the disarmament conference, since they are already agreed on the principle that real and radical disarmament is indispensable to restore the peace of the world."

DEPARTMENT ABANDONS HOPE OF POSTAL RATE INCREASE

"Dead Issue" Says Assistant to Brown in Discussing That Plan of Reducing Deficit.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Postoffice Department has given up hope of obtaining postal rate increases to reduce the Treasury deficit.

F. A. Tilton, Assistant Postmaster General in charge of fiscal affairs, said today the matter was "a dead issue" as far as the department was concerned.

Postmaster General Brown had recommended to Congress that rates on non-local first-class mail be increased from 2 to 3 cents an ounce and that the 1921 war rates be resumed on bulk second-class matter.

Opposition developed in Congress to the proposed increases and the necessary legislation was considered unlikely.

The increase on second-class matter would have affected the advertising sections of daily newspapers.

BASES FOR RATE-MAKING IN MISSOURI FIXED BY I. C. C.

Decision Leaves to State Commission Task of Making Intrastate Schedules Coincide.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today prescribed bases for interstate freight between points in Southern Missouri but left to the Missouri Public Service Commission the task of making intrastate rates coincide.

Acting on a long series of cases consolidated under the title "Interstate rates between points in Missouri," the commission held that Southern Missouri should be divided into two rate-making groups. The first would consist of points on and north of the Missouri Pacific Railway from Bird's Point on the Mississippi River opposite Cairo, Ill., through Dexter and Poplar Bluff to Williamsville; thence via the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway through Willow Springs, Springfield, Aurora and Monett to Neosho; thence via the Kansas City Southern to Joplin; thence along the Missouri-Kansas-Texas to the Missouri-Kansas State line.

The second group would consist of all points south of the lines established in the first. Rates fixed for the first zone were based on findings in the Western trunk line case whereby these are figured on a mileage basis using the shortest distance between points where the route over which freight travels goes through another zone. In the second the rates are to be based on the shortest distance where this is entirely within the same zone.

FIRE IN RADIO LABORATORIES DESTROYS TELEVISION CAMERA

New Device Was All Ready for Test; $65,000 Damage at De Forest Plant.

By the Associated Press.
PASADENA, N. J., Jan. 22.—Fire starting when a nelectric arc burst its glass vacuum tube today swept the experimental laboratories of the De Forest Radio Co., and Station W2XCD, causing $65,000 damage.

Fed by oxygen gas used to purify Neon and Argon gases used extensively by the laboratories, the fire spread rapidly in the frame structure. The broadcasting station, operated by Jenkins Television Co., a De Forest subsidiary, was wrecked.

The great loss was of a new direct vision camera developed by De Forest experts after two years' experiments. The camera, costing $20,000, was to have been tried out for the first time next Monday. It was expected to mark a considerable advance in television. The building is located some distance from the main plants of the De Forest Radio Co.

CHILD TREATED AT HOSPITAL AFTER BEATING BY FATHER

Arnolda Campbell, 12, Turned Over to Board of Guardians
Following Whipping.

Arnolda Campbell, 12 years old, 4559 Norfolk avenue, was turned over to the Board of Children's Guardians yesterday after she reported to police that she had received a severe whipping from her father, John Campbell, because she attended a movie without permission.

The attention of police was called to the case by Mrs. Mary Russell, 1224 South Newstead avenue, to whom the child appeared. At City Hospital physicians said she was suffering from contusions of the back and legs. She explained, police state, that she went to a movie Wednesday evening, and did not get home until 10:30 o'clock. Her father whipped her with a leather belt, she said.

Police have not questioned Campbell pending probable action by the Board of Children's Guardians.

LEGION SEEKS TO CREATE ODD JOBS FOR 2500 MEN

To Ask Property Owners to Pay at Least 50 Cents a Week Toward Providing Work.

A plan to obtain odd jobs for 2500 men is under way in St. Louis under the auspices of the National Employment Committee of the American Legion with the co-operation of the United States Department of Labor. It is part of a national job-finding plan.

George W. Curran, chairman of the legion's regional employment committee, said a volunteer worker in each precinct would ask property owners to pay a minimum of 50 cents a week for odd jobs. There will be no conflict with craftsmen, Curran says.

They escaped from the death cell in which they had been confined since recapture after their escape a few months ago. Harvey was serving 110 years for robberies and Martin was under a life sentence for murder. Guards found a hole dug through the 10-inch brick and concrete wall of the cell and another hole in the heavy wire fence surrounding the prison.

TROLLEY TRAFFIC DECLINE IN ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS

Bankers Are Informed That Passenger Loss in Year Was 38 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Twin City Rapid Transit Co., operating in Minneapolis and St. Paul, carried 20,523,076 fewer revenue passengers in 1931 than in the preceding year, the decrease amounting to 38.5 per cent.

This loss, the largest suffered by the company in its history, was disclosed to bankers by President T. Julian McGill. It compares with a loss of 18,372,037 revenue passengers in 1930; and 11,696,324 in 1929.

In the face of declining traffic the company was able to reduce operating expenses $948,596, making a total decrease in operating costs since 1929 of more than $2,000,000.

The 1931 traffic loss compares with a passenger decline of 40.2 per cent in Cleveland, 32.8 per cent in Baltimore and 31 per cent in Washington. Cincinnati street railways showed the smallest loss at 31.8 per cent.

Issues, He Declares on Visit Home.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Gates W. McGarrah, president of the World Bank for International Settlements, arrived for a visit today on the liner Europa, declining to talk about international questions but declaring the United States in the last few months had seen "a decided growth of confidence."

Regarding United States finances,

he said Americans "have got to make up their minds to pay taxes and stop issuing bonds."

He said the country "danced two or three years and now they've got to pay the fiddler. They can do it, too. I have no worries about America."

Declaring the United States must set its house in order, he said that would take the best part of this year and "then we will be headed toward improvement on a firm basis."

He said his opinion had always been that a sales tax was one of the most just forms of taxation.

Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20.—The popularity of veteran actor Robbin Coons, who has played pictures typified by "The Sign of the Cross" and "The Sign of the Cross," are pointed illustration in the career of Charles.

Sale, who got a real hit from "The Sign of the Cross" and "The Sign of the Cross," are pointed illustration in the career of Charles.

30 years than he is. He played up to give rustic appearance in the role of short. He made, in "The Sign of the Cross," he went to a makeup to had as a boy, and a beard to impersonate a man.

performance as the veteran in this picture led to a contract for more features. "Old Man Minick," completed, Warner Bros. extended contract to cover three more years.

herein lies a hint for fair girls—buy a beard and a wig.

AUDEVILLE appearances the highest dividend of any insurance—Hollywood knows, in an insurance open to every one who has built up a reliable film reputation, is the only premium exacted, and is the labor involved in buying the picture name, for film sales days as never before is in gate to vaudeville opportunity.

Through that gate are passing stars and near-stars—right, if they wished, remain pictures. It is, however, for those who feel their position slipping and who see a hand, handwriting on the wall, the vaudeville contract looms as a sure policy of the great future.

PETER a career on the screen, the name of the star must be much to fans. The opportunity to see this favorite in person, their own home towns, outweighs the consideration, if it occurs, that the star perhaps is passing, and stars flock to the box office. Fans whose movie tickets have made it possible for producers to pay this star a handsome salary through several years, now rush to buy another ticket, perhaps the tribute of cash they will pay to honor.

If the star during his picture career has been provident and tucked away some money, this tour will be to his fund. If he hasn't, it gives him enough, or more than enough, to live in comfort the rest of his life.

And that, when all is said, is the real reason why the stars are collecting royally from an "insurance" which in dollars and cents has nothing.

Clean the new home before moving into it and you will be settled more quickly.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

ROCK could scarcely believe his ears. Yet there was no mistake. He implied even more than he said.

"In earnest? Good Lord! I wish I knew how to tell you the earnest I am."

"Well, I reckon now I savvy why you met Ash that way. Guess the bunch. Rock, you're an upstanding fine chap an' I like you. You had habit you used to have don't hurt you in my estimation. So you be backward tellin' me just how you feel about Thiry."

as you want. You shore don't have to ask anything of Ash."

"Father!" cried Thiry, incredulously, almost with horror. In that exclamation of protest, of unbelief, of consternation, Rock felt further into this Preston mystery. It seemed to betray Preston's guilt along with that of his son, and Thiry's knowledge of it.

"Well, less, will you answer Rock now or do you want some time to think it over?" asked Preston, coolly, unabashed or unconcerned by her agitation.

"Mr. Rock, I thank you," said Thiry, through trembling pale lips. "For the honor you do me... I'm sorry I cannot accept."

Rock bowed, with what little dignity he could assume. "Thiry, wait a minute," said her father, as she made for the door. He caught her and held her, unmistakable affection in his grasp. "I'm sorry to upset you. But these things will happen. Don't think your dad wants to get rid of you. I'm powerful fond of you, Thiry. You always was my favorite. It's only that lately—well, I don't want to worry you about what might happen to me. I might not always be here to take care of you."

"Dad, what do you mean?" she asked, hurriedly.

"Nothin' much," he replied, enigmatically. "I'd like to have your future settled before—before long. An' Rock struck me about right. I'm aw, there your cryin'. Wal, run along. I shore can't stand a cryin' woman, not even you. An' it's no great compliment to Rock."

Thiry held her head high as she walked by Rock.

"Preston, what'n hell did you do that for?" exclaimed Rock when she was gone.

"Cowboy, you shore are an appreciatin' cuss," returned the rancher, with sarcasm.

"If I ever had any hope to win Thiry, it's sure gone now," fumed Rock.

"Much you know about women," said Preston. "I had a hunch Thiry said a shine to you, an' now I know it."

"Man, you're drunk or crazy, as Thiry said."

"Wal, Rock, if she hasn't before she will now," replied Preston, imperturbably. "She knows now you want to marry her. That always fetches a woman, provided she ain't in love with someone else."

"Preston, I can't be mad at you, but I sure want to be," returned Rock, resigning himself.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Iago Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Disease Fighting Disease

ONE of the remarkable achievements of modern medicine is based on the treatment of one disease through the agency of another.

Progressive paralysis, known too as dementia paralytica, and general paresis, was one of the diseases which puzzled the medical profession for many years.

The cause of this distressing and pitiful condition was demonstrated by the late Dr. Noguchi less than 20 years ago.

He found the germ of syphilis in the brain tissue of those affected and proved what had been surmised before, that progressive paralysis was due to the damage done to the brain by the disease.

This established the cause, but little furthered the treatment or cure of the disease.

Ten years ago Osler's text book on medicine said of the disease that it rarely ends in recovery.

"As a rule the progress is slowly downward and the case terminates in a few years, although it is occasionally prolonged 10 or 15 years," he said.

Ten years ago Dr. Wagner-Jauregg of Vienna instituted a treatment for this condition which involved the giving of the disease malaria to the sufferer from progressive paralysis.

As is well known malaria causes high fever.

And, as experience has shown, this high body temperature, and perhaps other and still unknown factors, effect a destruction within the brain tissue of the germs of syphilis.

Malaria, of course, can be effectively treated through the administration of quinine.

The original study was made on 129 cases. At the present time, nine years after the experiment was started, more than 50 per cent of the patients are alive.

Of these, numbering 87 in all, 88 are perfectly well.

Prof. Wagner-Jauregg received the Nobel prize in medicine for 1927.

ask That Management Be as Zealous in Relieving Distress as in Solving Financial Problems.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—The railway unions told the railroad presents today that employees should be called upon to contribute 10 per cent of their meager earnings to the benefit of other interests in the railroad industry.

David Robertson, chairman of a labor group at the wage conference, in presenting a rebuttal to a railroad executives' plea for a per cent voluntary wage cut this afternoon, asserted that in any consideration of wage reductions management "should at least be as zealous in furnishing additional employment and relieving employment distress as in solving its own financial problems."

Labor, said its spokesman, cannot agree to the "gloomy picture" the railroad's financial standing painted by Daniel Willard of the executive committee of nine in this week's conference.

"We must candidly state," said Robertson, "that we do not believe arguments and statistics presented by the presidents' committee demonstrate the justice of their request."

The considerations must proceed, declared, from a new standpoint determine whether the pressing crisis of the situation compel the conclusion that employees should make a contribution to advance a common interest of management and labor in improving the state of the industry.

Going into the statistics offered the carriers, Robertson said the financial distress of the lines was too way caused by unreasonable payments for labor.

The president's figures, he asserted, excluding the salaries of supervisory officials from the wage statistics, showed the following declines in 1931 as compared with 1930: Total wages, 29 per cent; total expenses 28 per cent; total revenue carloadings 29 per cent; total freight earnings 32 per cent; total earnings 33 per cent.

"Labor has contributed," he insisted, "more to reduction of operating expenses than any other group."

Robertson added that the carriers had sought and obtained substantial aid from the public through advances of freight rates and through the reconstruction corporation funds.

"The principal cause of ill health of the rails," Robertson said, "is insufficient earnings but an sound financial structure unable support the burden of a business depression."

Brotherhood delegates and railroad presidents met separately this morning to prepare their last proposals. Sentiment among the conference rooms made it apparent a showdown was approaching.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, in a four-hour address yesterday before the executives' case. The 500 union chairmen who heard him, murmured afterward they were not ready to vote on the reduction. Before doing so, their leaders said, they wanted specific answers from the railways on all points of their program for relieving distress among their 700,000 jobless members and stabilizing work in the future.

Willard assured them individual roads would do everything practicable to put men back to work but since the start of the depression the workers have lost on a guarantee of employment for the same number that is at work in 1930.

State Asks I. C. C. for Report on 6-Hour Day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The state yesterday adopted a resolution asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to inquire into the merit of establishing a six-hour day for an eight-hour day for employees of railroads. The resolution, proposed by Chairman Cullen, was referred to a committee of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which is to report by Jan. 31. Concurrence by the House necessary before the inquiry can begin.

Robinson said he had been informed the six-hour day was the point of difference at the wage rail wage discussions and a knowledge of its effects was continued on Page 2, Column 1.
